Arkansas Prison Inmates Blasted With Shotguns

CUMMINS PRISON FARM, Ark. (AP) — Prison guards fired eight shotgun blasts into a group of 75 inmates Monday, wounding 24, after the convicts refused to work in the prison fields unless some institution policies are changed.

Supt. Victor C. Urban defended the use of gunfire as a reasonable tactic under the circumstances. Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller called for a full investigation.

All but one of the 24 prisoners who were wounded were taken to the hospital infirmary. Urban said Herman Goad, 30, of Natchez, Miss., was struck in the eye by birdshot and taken to a Little Rock hospital.

Urban said about 100 prisoners refused to work Monday morning but that about 22 changed their minds and went to work.

He said Gary Haydis, an associate superintendent, fired the first shot.

"Mr. Haydis told them to go back to work," Urban said. "He fired his shotgun in the air as a warning shot, and they did not move. So he fired into them. Then they moved."

Two of the inmates who were wounded told newsmen that no warning shot was fired.

Urban, who said he did not witness the shooting, reported that the inmates were wounded in the head, back and arms.

"Those who were wounded in the head were sitting down," he said. "The others were standing."

He said 10 of the leaders of the strike had been transferred to Tucker Prison Farm to be put in isolation, and another inmate was placed in isolation at Cummins.

The shooting was the latest in a series of incidents in the Arkansas prison system, which has been criticized by its opponents as brutal and outmoded.

Thomas O. Murton, Urban's predecessor, theorized a year ago that three skeletons found in shallow graves on prison property were the remains of inmates secretly murdered and buried.

The State Police reported, following an investigation, that Murton's theory was improbable and that the skeletons were probably the remains of inmates whose bodies had not been claimed by relatives.

A state police report issued early in 1967, before Murton's term, revealed the use of various torture devices at Tucker Prison Farm.

90th Congress Over; Good, Not Great

Assessment Given By Mansfield After Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 90th Congress, described by a Senate leader as good but not great, is over.

After trying for three days to muster the House quorum needed to approve adjournment, leaders gave up Monday and voted anyway to end the session.

This was possible because no one in either the House or Senate raised the question of a quorum.

The House completed its business at 2 p.m. and the Senate followed 17 minutes later.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., pronounced this vaudeville:

"This has been a good Congress, not a great Congress, not a poor Congress."

The 90th passed much significant legislation including a civil rights bill with a broad open housing provision, anti-crime and gun control measures, a big increase in Social Security benefits, a temporary 10 per cent income tax hike, an omnibus housing bill containing new homes, a "truth-in-lending" measure, and several important conservation bills.

But it also handed President Johnson some major defeats, in

'Missing' State Fair Cash Found

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The $10,588 missing from the Ohio State Fair has turned up and preliminary figures show the 1968 exposition turned a $181,000 profit.

Assistant State Treasurer Robert Gardner said Monday the missing money inadvertently wound up in the receipts of the Giant Slide concession. The state had kept the receipts of the California concessionaire along with its own in the cashier's office at the fairgrounds.

Tabulations by State Auditor Roger Cloud show total receipts of $2,028,634 and expenses of $1,846,922 for the fair for a total profit of $181,712.

Total paid attendance for the 12-day event was 559,490 adults, 100,205 children and 144,478 automobiles for gate receipts of $970,663.

The largest single expense was $511,163 for entertainment, of which $232,020 went for the grandstand "package deal."

Closed Hearing Held In Police Dismissal Case

Civil Service Body To Give Decision Within 30 Days

The Circleville Civil Service Commission held a closed hearing Monday to listen to testimony in the appeal of City Police Sergeant Leroy Hawks on his dismissal from the force.

Hawks was dismissed Oct. 1, from the police force. At that time Safety Director Robert Adkins stated that "recent behavior resulted in conduct unbecoming an officer making the action necessary."

The public and reporters were barred from City Council Chambers, where the hearing was held.

The only persons admitted to the hearing were Hawks, his wife, his attorney, Robert Adkins; city solicitor O. Charles Hesterman; Safety Director Adkins; Chief of Police Robert Temple; Judy Little, who was dismissed as meter maid the day before Hawks was dismissed; and the members of the civil service commission, George Young, Luther Bower and Vernon Hawkes.

City Patrolmen Wesley Barton and Leonard Sines testified during the hearing, but neither was present to hear any other testimony.

No decision was reached by the commission last night. The members of the commission indicated to Huffert they would rule in about 30 days after they had thoroughly studied the testimony.

Sirhan To Face Trial Alone

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan apparently will be tried on the basis that he alone murdered Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The chief deputy district attorney, Lynn D. Compton, said at a hearing Monday that the investigation of other possible suspects "is negative and of little value to anyone." This was the first public statement along those lines by the prosecution.

The defense requested—and received—a delay from Nov. 1 to Dec. 9 for the start of the trial.

CYCLE ACCIDENT — Ernest Cook of Laurelville was killed Monday when the cycle that he was driving struck a car driven by 20-year-old James Berard of Laurelville. The accident occurred by Laurel Creek Bridge near Cook's home.

Motorcyclist Is Killed In Collision Near Home

A Laurelville man was killed when the motorcycle he was driving collided with a car near his home Monday afternoon.

Dead on arrival at Berger Hospital 4:30 p.m. Monday was Ernest Cook, 30. Cook is the 14th traffic fatality in Pickaway County during 1968.

Cook was driving his motorcycle west on Route 56 near Laurel Creek Bridge when a car driven by 20-year-old James Berard of Laurelville pulled into his lane, according to Deputy Sheriff Richard Clark.

He was a truck driver for Pipe Haulers of Columbus.

SERVICES will be 2 p.m. Thursday in the Ware Funeral Home, Chillicothe. The Rev. Raymond Welsh will officiate with interment in Concord Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home beginning 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Carmichael Urges Negroes To Arm

MONTREAL (AP) — Stokely Carmichael told delegates to a Black Writers Congress at McGill University Monday that their job is to "instill in the people the will to fight to the death."

Negro writers, he said, are responsible only for fulfilling the needs of black masses, not for answering Western society.

"If you're a black writer and someone asks you if you're a racist, you answer, 'Yes, and if you get smart I'm going to kill you,'" he said.

In a 45-minute speech that topped off a four-day conference marked with antiwhite resentment from both speakers and delegates, Carmichael urged North American Negroes to arm themselves and join "other oppressed peoples" in the war against racism, capitalism and imperialism.

The Berard car was attempting a U-turn when the accident occurred.

COOK's cycle struck the car on the driver's side near the door and threw Cook about 20 feet, according to witnesses quoted by the sheriff's report.

Cause of Cook's death was massive head, chest and neck injuries, Sheriff Dwight Radcliff stated.

Berard, who suffered a bump on the head and a lacerated lip in the accident, was cited by the sheriff's department for failure to yield the right of way.

Mr. Cook was the son of Mrs. Rose Ann Spurlock Cook of Columbus. He was preceded in death by his father, Albert J. Cook.

Born in Wilmington, March 26, 1938, he was married on Nov. 28, 1964 to Betty Detillion, who survives. Other survivors include one daughter, Kimberly Sue of the home; two sisters, Mrs. Eugene (Myrna) Simmerman, and Mrs. Leroy (Sharon) Adams of Columbus.

9 Elector Slates File In Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio voters have a choice of nine presidential candidates Nov. 5.

Supporters of Sen. Eugene McCarthy filed a slate of electors with Secretary of State Ted W. Brown early today.

George Wallace's American Independent Party, the Communist Party, the Socialist Labor Party and a "peace" party headed by Negro comedian Dick Gregory, filed lists of 26 presidential electors with Brown on Monday.

Four other parties—the Republicans, Democrats, the Prohibitionists and the Socialist Workers of Ohio had filed previously.

Schools Close Near Painesville

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Four schools in the Perry Township School District close after classes today because the schools have run out of money.

Some 1,800 students and 75 teachers are affected.

Perry Board of Education officials hope to reopen next month when the Lake County auditor will release $31,600 in personal property taxes and $32,000 will be received by the district from foundation funds.

Rountown

ENTRANTS of the Bake-A-Pumpkin-Pie Contest are advised of a change in the rules of the contest regarding the size of pans to be used.

Mrs. Robert Shadley, director and her assistant Mrs. John Himrod, have been informed that both 9-inch and 8-inch disposable foil pans are available from local merchants.

Therefore, either size pan can be used by the contestant and will be accepted by the committee for judging.

MRS. Larry Graham, chair man of the Baby Parade, has announced judging plans for the Thursday afternoon parade. The four out-of-town judges will conduct the judging before, during and after the parade.

Following the usual custom, the judges will ride in the parade. By being near the lead of the procession, this will enable them to view the entries at the parade's end, prior to the final judging.

PUMPKIN Show visitors will have an opportunity to receive an aerial view of the festival again this year.

A jet-powered helicopter ride service will be operated from Ted Lewis Park.

THE unseasonable warm weather will be around for at least one more day according to the local weather observer who forecast a high temperature reading in the mid 80s for Wednesday in the Rountown area.

EVERYBODY in the courthouse today was wearing pumpkin beanies.

The little orange felt hats have been made by the Jaycees Wives and will be sold at their booth during the festival.

Even the commissioners had the hats on.

Charles Morris said he had an advantage over his fellow solons.

He has hair to pin the hat to.

Negroes End Lock-In

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A dozen members of the Black Students Union, who seized a classroom building at the University of California campus here, withdrew when amnesty and all but one of their eight demands were promised.

The students, charging racism on the campus, held control of North Hall for 9 1/2 hours Monday after chain-locking the doors at dawn. More than 80 classes were canceled as a result.

Jury Convicts 2 Of Robbery

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A federal jury found two men guilty Monday of armed robbery. Their first trial ended in a hung jury last May.

John M. DelZoppo and Alfred S. Calabrese both had pleaded innocent to charges of taking $17,720 last Dec. 14 from a Society National Bank branch. A machine gun was used in the holdup.

Police Seek Johnny Pot; Modern Marijuana Planter

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Johnny Pot, a modern-day Johnny Appleseed, is being sought by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in northeastern Ohio and other states.

According to reports, the hippie planter scatters marijuana seeds in little-used pasture land and on acreage of abandoned farms. Then he sends detailed maps of his latest plantings to fellow hippies when he stops to rest.

Agents say the garishly dressed hippie—he wears a black derby hat, a madras sport coat, burgundy trousers, and gold sandals—is about six-foot, 140 pounds and has a brown Van Dyke beard with brown, shoulder-length hair.

The search for the seed planter is being intensified because this is the time of year he replenishes his seed supply. In late August and October the marijuana plant is bursting with seed.

Johnny Pot was given his nickname by an agent who has chased him from the timberlands of Washington and Oregon through Kansas and Idaho to Ohio.

Johnny carries the seeds in a mailman's pouch.

He travels on foot and will accept rides only from long-distance truck drivers. He appears only during the early morning

Report Part Of Tiny Isle Blown Away

SAIGON (AP) — The battleship New Jersey steamed farther up the North Vietnamese coast than ever before Monday and blew part of a small island off the map, the U.S. Command reported.

The target for the 56,000-ton New Jersey, the only active battleship in the world, was three-square-mile Hon Mat island 14 miles south of the 19th parallel limit for U.S. bombers and warships. Anti-aircraft batteries on the island have been attacking American bombers and rescue helicopters.

For 30 minutes the New Jersey's 16-inch guns hurled 2,700-pound shells into the island, shells so powerful they can penetrate 30 feet of reinforced concrete. An aerial spotter said the battleship wiped out one anti-aircraft battery and took away a large slice of the island itself.

Over South Vietnam, about 100 of America's heaviest bombers, the Air Force B52s, dropped 3,000 tons of bombs around four key provincial capitals in efforts to crush enemy buildup threatening them.

Although virtually no significant ground action was reported, the naval and air bombardments were some of the most awesome of the war.

South Vietnamese Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Minh said the B52s "have critically frightened the enemy, exposed his aging areas, offered no more safe places for big troops massing. Even to establish a small installation security area is already a big problem."

Minh, commander of government forces defending Saigon, announced the start of a new government psychological warfare campaign aimed at getting more Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops and political workers to defect.

The air campaign against the movement of war supplies from North Vietnam into South Vietnam continued with American

New Explosion Rips Building In Ann Arbor

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — An explosion shortly before midnight Monday shattered windows and a door of the University of Michigan's Institute of Science and Technology on the North Campus at Ann Arbor.

There were no known injuries, although police who moved immediately to seal off the area said building custodians apparently had been in the area only moments before the blast.

The explosion was the second in recent weeks in Ann Arbor and the 13th in the Detroit area. An earlier explosion shattered the front door of an Ann Arbor office building rented by the Department of Defense.

The blast Monday night occurred in a two-story wing of a building that houses the university's Great Lakes research laboratory and a laboratory for research in three-dimensional photography.

Apollo Crew Puts On Another Television Show

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 7 astronauts, all battling colds, today performed a celestial acrobatic show and took television viewers on a high-spirited tour of their high-flying spaceship.

"Starring the great acrobats of outer space," radioed commander Walter M. Schirra Jr. as the second live episode of the Wally, Walt and Donn show began at 9:29 a.m. CDT.

With the transmission quality about as good as it was during the crew's first live telecast Monday, Schirra and his copilot, Donn F. Eisele and Walter Cunningham first held up a sign welcoming people to "The Love-ly Apollo Room High Atop Everything."

Schirra and Cunningham then held up two signs asking Donald K. Slayton, head of the astronaut office, and Paul Haney, director of public affairs for the Manned Spacecraft Center here, "Are you a turtle?"

The signs referred to an inside joke among the astronauts and, if properly answered, would have elicited a racy reply not fit for the airways. Haney refrained from answering, and Slayton was not in mission control at the time.

"From outer space, the one and only original Apollo roadshow," Schirra then said, and the three crewmen began floating around in a dramatic display of how roomy their capsule is.

One of the other astronauts held the 4 1/2-pound camera at the end of its 12-foot cord as Schirra took viewers on a tour of their spaceship interior during the 11-minute show.

He showed Apollo 7's guidance and navigation station, food storage compartment, crew station for optical alignment of the guidance system and main console.

Cunningham demonstrated how Apollo 7's exercise machine is used, an elastic device to keep muscles loose.

Schirra floated up from the lower equipment bay, and let a pencil float also.

Another show has been scheduled for Wednesday about the same time, as Apollo 7 speeds over the United States within range of the two television receiving stations at Corpus Christi, Tex., and Merritt Island, Fla., near Cape Kennedy.

Harriet Eisele, the astronaut's wife, was in mission control to watch today's telecast along with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Hamilton of Gnadent-hutten, Ohio.

Earlier, ground controllers told the pilots their television ratings on the first show Monday "were pretty high."

"With a little work, we'll manage to book you for another week," they told the pilots.

"We got the straw hats; we'll try next time," quipped Schirra in reply.

Flight planners said the Apollo 7 had already completed 14 of the 20 top mission goals, despite the fact they were battling colds and their 11-day flight had only passed the one-third mark.

"It looks like you guys are riding a real Cadillac up there," flight controllers radioed to the crew.

California Senate Hopefuls Hold Opposite Viewpoints

By JERRY RANKIN
Associated Press Writer
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)

California's tart-tongued schoolmaster, Republican Max Rafferty, and Democrat Alan Cranston, one of the state's champion vote-getters, are locked in a bruising U.S. Senate campaign of sharply contrasting styles and beliefs.

The two men hold opposite viewpoints on almost all public issues.

Cranston regards Rafferty as a right wing extremist. Rafferty looks on Cranston as a left wing extremist.

Charges of lies, smears and near treason have been traded. Each professes amazement at the idea that his foe would ever sit in the halls of Congress.

Rafferty, 51-year-old state Superintendent of public instruction, upset incumbent Thomas H. Kuchel—assistant Republican leader in the Senate—by 69,000 votes of more than two million in the June primary.

Cranston scored an easy primary victory, unlike 1964 when he was beaten out by the last minute challenge of Pierre Salinger, former White House press secretary.

Cranston had rolled up huge margins in being elected state controller in 1958. Ronald Reagan-led Republican statewide sweep in 1966.

Debate before California's nearly eight million voters keyed on two basic issues—peace in Vietnam and on American streets.

Cranston's position on Vietnam:

"I urge an immediate, unconditional halt to the bombing of North Vietnam. We should find out if, when we stop the bombing, they will talk peace. If they will not talk peace no matter what we do... then we must seek to de-Americanize the war. We should tell the government of South Vietnam 'You can't depend on us forever.' I do not favor picking up and walking out and abandoning South Vietnam."

Rafferty's Vietnam position:

"We are all desirous of an honorable settlement of the war at the earliest possible date—but this settlement must be honorable and not an unconditional halt in the bombing which could cause the loss of thousands of American lives." He says Cranston's call for a bombing halt approaches "a policy not only of national suicide but of national treason."

Both men favor "law and order," although Cranston calls it "law and justice." Rafferty talks about "some surly slob who blasts his neighbor wide open with a shotgun" and urges quick, stiff punishment:

"Retribution is what I'm talking about, friends, and ever since we crawled out of caves, retribution has followed wrongdoing as the night does the day."

School Board Hires Aides, OK's Vacation

Circleville Board of Education met in a brief rescheduled session Monday night to approve the hiring of auxiliary teaching aides and staff personnel and to give its customary approval to a Pumpkin Show vacation.

Vacation for students and teachers will begin 12:50 p.m. Wednesday for elementary school and 1:30 p.m. for junior high and high school. Classes will begin as usual Monday.

Eleven teacher aides were approved by the board. Serving at Atwater School will be Mary Wickline and Mrs. Velma Walters. High St. School aides will be Helen Burns and Mrs. John Simison. For the Mount St. School Betty Liston, Jeanne Doering, Mary Ann Hoffman, Eleanor Stocklen and Marcella Shea were hired.

Aides at Nicholas Drive School are Teresa Allen and Gardenia Roß.

Nurses and a secretary were approved for the school year. Mrs. Alice Camp and Mrs. Wanda Matesky will serve as nurses for eight months at a salary of $370 each per month.

Mrs. Barbara Frazier was hired for eight months as secretary at a salary of $260. Salaries will be paid for under Title I.

Custodians Merrill Allen and George Fowler, who had been working on a temporary basis, were employed permanently.

Mrs. Barbara Rihl was hired as a cafeteria employee.

In other business before the board, a decision was made to enforce immunization of students attending Circleville Schools. This was just a precautionary measure in case unimmunized students from other districts transferred to Circleville, according to Superintendent Fritz Jacobs, who stated that almost all Circleville students already have the required immunizations.

Authorization was granted to Jacobs for the purchase of a $3,350 reconditioned total typing sensimatic programmed machine. The machine was recommended by Mary Ellen Rader, board secretary.

Junior high girls will be offered extra-curricular intramurals with the implementation of a decision to appoint Mrs. Susan Thomas as the girls' intramurals adviser.

A proposal for three classes in adult education, to be sponsored through the government, was approved by the board, which authorized submission of the proposal to the proper government agencies.

Purchase of laboratory equipment totaling $550 was approved. The equipment includes five reconditioned microscopes. About 50 percent of the costs will be reimbursed by the federal government.

Communications to the board included a request by Dwight Hershey that the charge of $100 plus janitorial expenses for the use of the gym during a Pre-Crusade Youth Rally be reduced. The board approved a new cost of $50 plus expenses.

Battelle Memorial Institute officially informed the board of acceptance of its request for membership in the coming research program. First meeting of the research series is scheduled for Nov. 22, at the institute headquarters.

A summary of the work of the board - appointed committee to consider a family life education program was presented by Jacobs. The board composed of doctors, ministers and PTA members, will evaluate results of recent discussions with PTA groups and appoint a curriculum committee.

In final action before the board, the addition of Carol Marcy to the list of substitute teachers, was approved.

Charges of lies, smears and near treason have been traded. Each professes amazement at the idea that his foe would ever sit in the halls of Congress.

Rafferty, 51-year-old state Superintendent of public instruction, upset incumbent Thomas H. Kuchel—assistant Republican leader in the Senate—by 69,000 votes of more than two million in the June primary.

Cranston scored an easy primary victory, unlike 1964 when he was beaten out by the last minute challenge of Pierre Salinger, former White House press secretary. Cranston had rolled up huge margins in being elected state controller in 1958.

Ronald Reagan-led Republican statewide sweep in 1966.

Debate before California's nearly eight million voters keyed on two basic issues—peace in Vietnam and on American streets.

Cranston's position on Vietnam:

"I urge an immediate, unconditional halt to the bombing of North Vietnam. We should find out if, when we stop the bombing, they will talk peace. If they will not talk peace no matter what we do . . . then we must seek to de-Americanize the war. We should tell the government of South Vietnam 'You can't depend on us forever.' I do not favor picking up and walking out and abandoning South Vietnam."

Rafferty's Vietnam position:

"We are all desirous of an honorable settlement of the war at the earliest possible date—but this settlement must be honorable and not an unconditional halt in the bombing which could cause the loss of thousands of American lives." He says Cranston's call for a bombing halt approaches "a policy not only of national suicide but of national treason."

Both men favor "law and order," although Cranston calls it "law and justice." Rafferty talks about "some surly slob who blasts his neighbor wide open with a shotgun" and urges quick, stiff punishment:

"Retribution is what I'm talking about, friends, and ever since we crawled out of caves, retribution has followed wrongdoing as the night does the day."

Custodians Merrill Allen and George Fowler, who had been working on a temporary basis, were employed permanently. Mrs. Barbara Rihl was hired as a cafeteria employee.

In other business before the board, a decision was made to enforce immunization of students attending Circleville Schools. This was just a precautionary measure in case unimmunized students from other districts transferred to Circleville, according to Superintendent Fritz Jacobs, who stated that almost all Circleville students already have the required immunizations.

The contract provides a $120 Christmas bonus for miners who have not engaged in any wildcat strikes during the year.

The new contract covers some 80,000 miners working for bituminous association companies in 22 states, plus another 10,000 employed by four other firms that authorized Judy to sign for them. Provisions of the pattern-setting agreement will be extended to another 40,000 men employed by other companies outside the industry association, Boyle said.

More than 40,000 miners started striking Sept. 30 in what the union said was an unauthorized walkout. Most of the rest of the miners in the industry joined the strike when the old contract officially expired Oct. 8.

The contract provides an immediate $3-a-day wage increase retroactive to Oct. 1, and another $2 a day next Oct. 1 and a final $2 on Oct. 1, 1970.

Wages had been $27.25 a day for most miners, $30 for top men.

The wage increases alone, averaging out to $2.33 per day the combined value of both wage-and fringe-benefit hikes in each of the last two contracts in 1964 and 1966.

Woman Uses ADC Money To Learn, Gets Arrested

By JACK GROCHOT
Cleveland Plain Dealer Writer
CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Most barbers, at the slightest sign of interest, will unravel from their wallets a string of photographs of their children. Then while the scissors come within a fraction of cutting off an earlobe they'll brag about how well the kids are doing in grammar school.

Lady barber Mrs. Carrie Thomas, 47, is different.

She must be coaxed to tell the story of her four children who grew up in the innercity, and it is a story that Horatio Alger, the self-made man, would have been proud to tell.

It began almost 15 years ago when her now-deceased husband abandoned his family.

Mrs. Thomas, who believes that God helps those who help themselves, was forced to accept Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) checks, which amounted to about $120 a month.

After three years, she had saved—through some extremely tight budgeting and sacrifice—$600 to send her to barber school, buy tools of the trade and a couple uniforms.

Mrs. Thomas decided that it would be a profession she would and one that would provide enough income to support her children without ADC.

She was accepted at the school and arranged her training schedule so that she started in the morning after her children left for class, came home to fix lunch, and returned to her East 49th Street home before they get back for supper.

Six months after she was graduated and hired by a barber shop near her home—when things seemed to be going perfectly—the boom was lowered.

She had informed the Cuyahoga County Welfare Department to stop sending checks as soon as she got the job. She was making it on her own.

At 5 o'clock one morning, a Cleveland detective served her a warrant for defrauding the welfare department.

She was convicted. Her crime: Using ADC money not for the purpose for which it was intended. Sending herself through barber school was illegal, she was told by the judge, who placed her on three years probation.

Had she used the money for barber school today, it would not be a crime. The department now pays women extra if they

Probe Payments

NEW YORK (AP)—The Citizens Budget Commission, a research group, says the federal government should standardize welfare payments. "People don't come to New York City solely to go on welfare," it said, "but a reasonably adequate amount of welfare payments here is an important consideration." It said a family of four gets $35 a month in Mississippi and $241.15 in New York City.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

She's 20 Years Old, Needs Baby Sitter

DEAR ABBY: I have shared an apartment with another girl for almost a year, and our lease is nearly up. My problem is that I don't want to live with this girl any longer. She's a good kid, but she needs a babysitter. She is 20 years old, and she's afraid to stay alone for one night. I went home for a weekend, and when I returned she said she was so "afraid" to be alone she slept with the lights on.

One day I failed to tell her I was going to do some errands after work, so when I got home (about 2 hours later) she was so "worried" about me, she was ready to call the police!

My mother agrees that I'd be better off living alone even if I couldn't afford such an expensive apartment. But how can I tell this girl?

UP A CREEK

DEAR UP: Tell her in plain English that you have decided to live alone. And don't start making excuses or you will have a debate on your hands.

DEAR ABBY: I used to suspect that you made up some of those crazy letters I read in your column. But now I'm sure you don't, because not even you, Dear Abby, could spin a yarn as wild as what is actually taking place right under my nose.

A retired old maid school teacher lives next door to me. She's always been friendly and above reproach.

Recently I noticed two very nice looking young men "visiting" her. It soon became apparent that they were living there. Next I noticed a lot of middle-age women coming and going. I inquired and was told the young men were teaching French and Spanish. Now I hear this old maid is running some sort of "brothel for women!"

I understand the authorities do nothing as she is neither breaking the law nor disturbing the peace. How about this!

B.B.

DEAR B.B.: "Brothels" for either sex are against the law, so if your information is correct, you are "understanding" that which is not understandable. You could be mistaken, however. Lots of middle-age women are eager to learn French and Spanish.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been having a big difference of opinion about the use of the word "BROAD," when referring to a woman.

I say it is a reflection on a woman's character, and no nice lady would care to be called a "broad."

My husband says that the term is more descriptive of a woman's figure (like a "broad expanse") and has nothing whatsoever to do with her character. Yet he admits that he would never use it around church people.

Where did this word come from in connection with ladies?

MRS. G.

DEAR MRS. G.: Beats me. But if one of my readers out there clews me in, I'll let you know.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ACCUSE:" Yes, it is possible for two blue-eyed parents to produce a brown-eyed child. Consult a book on heredity and the Mendelian Law. And tell your sister-in-law about another law. The law of common decency with which she should become more familiar.

British War Museum Hit By Firebombs

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard detectives poked through a mass of charred wreckage today trying to determine if protesters against the Vietnam war set fire to Britain's Imperial War Museum.

Fire burned out the 120-foot dome of the museum Sunday night, but an official said most of the priceless collection from the two world wars was saved.

Officials said the fire was the work of an arsonist and was started by two incendiary bombs, one hidden in the dome and the other thrown through a ground-floor window.

Leaflets circulated in London last week urged demonstrators to make grenades and firebombs and assemble for a massive anti-Vietnam protest Oct. 27. But Scotland Yard said investigations so far showed "absolutely no connection" between leaflets and the museum fire.

The museum's huge copper-sheathed dome was wrecked by the blaze that erupted after an explosion before midnight. Firemen battled the flames in a scene watched by thousands of bystanders and reminiscent of the wartime blitz. Two firemen were injured.

Despite the damage, the museum was reopened to the public today while detectives and fingerprint experts worked inside. The dome was still smoldering.

Dr. Christopher Dowling of the museum staff said the reading room of the museum's $600,000 library was badly damaged but fewer than 100 books were charred.

The ground floor bomb landed near the documents room that houses the 1938 "Peace in our time" agreement that Neville Chamberlain brought back from Munich and the German surrender document that ended the European War in 1945. Neither was damaged.

Appeal Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court refused Monday to reverse a U.S. Circuit Court order that a three-judge federal court be impaneled to consider a plea that the state's judiciary be reapportioned. Ohio Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe had asked for the reversal of the April order issued by the District Court in Cincinnati.

She must be coaxed to tell the story of her four children who grew up in the innercity, and it is a story that Horatio Alger, the self-made man, would have been proud to tell.

It began almost 15 years ago when her now-deceased husband abandoned his family.

Mrs. Thomas, who believes that God helps those who help themselves, was forced to accept Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) checks, which amounted to about $120 a month.

After three years, she had saved—through some extremely tight budgeting and sacrifice—$800 to send her to barber school, buy tools of the trade and a couple uniforms.

Mrs. Thomas decided that it would be a profession she would and one that would provide enough income to support her children without ADC.

She was accepted at the school and arranged her training schedule so that she started in the morning after her children left for class, came home to fix lunch, and returned to her East 49th Street home before they get back for supper.

Six months after she was graduated and hired by a barber shop near her home—when things seemed to be going perfectly—the boom was lowered.

She had informed the Cuyahoga County Welfare Department to stop sending checks as soon as she got the job. She was making it on her own.

At 5 o'clock one morning, a Cleveland detective served her a warrant for defrauding the welfare department.

She was convicted. Her crime: Using ADC money not for the purpose for which it was intended. Sending herself through barber school was illegal, she was told by the judge, who placed her on three years probation.

Had she used the money for barber school today, it would not be a crime. The department now pays women extra if they

Probe Payments

NEW YORK (AP)—The Citizens Budget Commission, a research group, says the federal government should standardize welfare payments. "People don't come to New York City solely to go on welfare," it said, "but a reasonably adequate amount of welfare payments here is an important consideration." It said a family of four gets $35 a month in Mississippi and $241.15 in New York City.

Dear Abby: She's 20 Years Old, Needs Baby Sitter

DEAR ABBY: I have shared an apartment with another girl for almost a year, and our lease is nearly up. My problem is that I don't want to live with this girl any longer. She's a good kid, but she needs a babysitter. She is 20 years old, and she's afraid to stay alone for one night. I went home for a weekend, and when I returned she said she was so "afraid" to be alone she slept with the lights on.

One day I failed to tell her I was going to do some errands after work, so when I got home (about 2 hours later) she was practically in hysterics. She was so "worried" about me, she was ready to call the police!

My mother agrees that I'd be better off living alone even if I couldn't afford such an expensive apartment. But how can I tell this girl?

UP A CREEK
DEAR UP: Tell her in plain English that you have decided to live alone. And don't start making excuses or you will have a debate on your hands.

DEAR ABBY: I used to suspect that you made up some of those crazy letters I read in your column. But now I'm sure you don't, because not even you, Dear Abby, could spin a yarn as wild as what is actually taking place right under my nose.

A retired old maid school teacher lives next door to me. She's always been friendly and above reproach.

Recently I noticed two very nice looking young men "visiting" her. It soon became apparent that they were living there. Next I noticed a lot of middle-aged women coming and going. I inquired and was told the young men were teaching French and Spanish. Now I hear this old maid is running some sort of "brothel for women!"

I understand the authorities do nothing as she is neither breaking the law nor disturbing the peace. How about this?

B.B.:
DEAR B.B.: "Brothels" for either sex are against the law, so if your information is correct, you are "understanding" that which is not understandable. You could be mistaken, however. Lots of middle-aged women are eager to learn French and Spanish.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been having a big difference of opinion about the use of the word "BROAD," when referring to a woman.

I say it is a reflection on a woman's character, and no nice lady would care to be called a "broad."

My husband says that the term is more descriptive of a woman's figure (like a "broad expanse") and has nothing whatsoever to do with her character. Yet he admits that he would never use it around church people.

Where did this word come from in connection with ladies?

MRS. G.:
DEAR MRS. G.: Beats me. But if one of my readers out there clews me in, I'll let you know.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ACCUSE:" Yes, it is possible for two blue-eyed parents to produce a brown-eyed child. Consult a book on heredity and the Mendelian Law. And tell your sister-in-law about another law. The law of common decency with which she should become more familiar.

British War Museum Hit By Firebombs

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard detectives poked through a mass of charred wreckage today trying to determine if protesters against the Vietnam war set fire to Britain's Imperial War Museum.

Fire burned out the 120-foot dome of the museum Sunday night, but an official said most of the priceless collection from the two world wars was saved.

Officials said the fire was the work of an arsonist and was started by two incendiary bombs, one hidden in the dome and the other thrown through a ground-floor window.

Leaflets circulated in London last week urged demonstrators to make grenades and firebombs and assemble for a massive anti-Vietnam protest Oct. 27. But Scotland Yard said investigations so far showed "absolutely no connection" between leaflets and the museum fire.

The museum's huge copper-sheathed dome was wrecked by the blaze that erupted after an explosion before midnight. Firemen battled the flames in a scene watched by thousands of bystanders and reminiscent of the wartime blitz. Two firemen were injured.

Despite the damage, the museum was reopened to the public today while detectives and fingerprint experts worked inside. The dome was still smoldering.

Dr. Christopher Dowling of the museum staff said the reading room of the museum's $600,000 library was badly damaged but fewer than 100 books were charred.

The ground floor bomb landed near the documents room that houses the 1938 "Peace in our time" agreement that Neville Chamberlain brought back from Munich and the German surrender document that ended the European War in 1945. Neither was damaged.

Appeal Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court refused Monday to reverse a U.S. Circuit Court order that a three-judge federal court be impaneled to consider a plea that the state's judiciary be reapportioned. Ohio Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe had asked for the reversal of the April order issued by the District Court in Cincinnati.

Absentee Voting

Whatever the leadership of the House of Representatives does about apparent discrepancies in its voting procedures, it must not sweep the revelations under the rug in the hope the controversy will die.

At issue is the recording of votes on several bills for a congressman who was not present. Rep. Bob Wilson of California, chairman of the House Republican Campaign Committee, was recorded as voting in six roll calls in September, when in fact he was in his congressional district in San Diego.

Mr. Wilson has denied any wrongdoing. He says he neither requested his votes be counted in his absence nor was he aware they had been. He has also offered his "fullest cooperation" to the House Ethics Committee, which has launched a preliminary investigation.

There is no doubt that the votes were cast in the congressman's absence. The point is, why were they recorded, and by whom?

Another facet of the scandal, which the House leadership thus far has shown reluctance to investigate, could be the most important of all.

That is, how many other absentees might have had their votes recorded. If there are widespread irregularities in the House's voting procedures, they must be uncovered to the fullest extent so proper safeguards may be erected to prevent a recurrence.

Unfortunately, the disclosures of voting irregularities in the House came at the peak of a political campaign. Perhaps this is why they made the headlines, but this is also the most unlikely time for any substantial guarantees against future irregularities to emanate from the house membership.

It should not take the committee long to discover whether absentee voting has been a widespread or isolated practice. A prolonged and secret study can only be interpreted as an attempt at smoothing over the issue by the House leadership.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

WHEN GEORGE BERNARD SHAW was a virtual unknown, a prominent London producer turned thumbs-down on a play he had submitted. Many years later when Shaw had become world-famous, the producer begged for a chance to sponsor his newest comedy. Shaw wired back, "Better never than late."

John Barrymore, matinee idol and actor extraordinary, was a recognized authority on Shakespeare, and frequently delivered lectures on the plays and career of the "bard of Stratford." He had just concluded one such talk at a girls' college and asked for questions, when one girl inquired, "Considering the extreme youth of Romeo and Juliet, do you think it possible that they had any actual physical relationship?" Barrymore answered promptly, "They certainly did in the Chicago company."

A typical example of the new breed of self-reliant, completely independent young men of the new generation — aged fifteen — told his father in ringing tones, "Pop, it's time that I stood on my own two feet and made my own way — but I'm never going to be able to do it on my present allowance."

At a neighborhood bar, in the wee hours of the morning, a chronic stuttermouth announced, "If they r-r-really w-w-wanted to, they c-c-could end this d-d-damn w-w-war in V-V-Viet Nam in about t-t-two w-w-weeks!" "Hmph," snorted his companion, "That's easy for you to say!"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Our only daughter has wanted to be a nurse since she was a young child. This desire has never left her and now she is about ready to fulfill this ambition. My husband objects to the fact that she wants to go directly to nursing school after her high school graduation. He objects, too, because he feels that the nursing profession may seem glamorous but that nurses are only "servants in a pretty uniform." How can we solve this family problem?

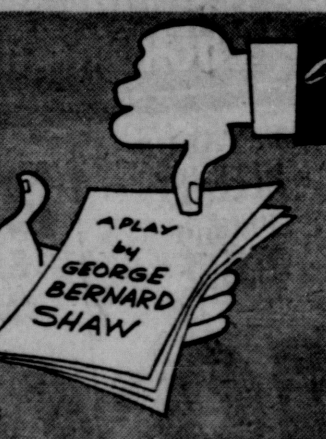

Mrs. M. S., Ohio
Dear Mrs. S., There are two important aspects of the problem you present. The first is your husband's fixed idea about the status of the nurse in medicine today. The nursing profession has, during the past fifty years, progressed to the point where it is now one of the most vital forces in the total recovery of the patient from physical and emotional disorders.

Service, not servility, is the essence of the nurse who is part of the total health team. The role of the nurse today is of major importance in every specialty and phase of medicine within and outside the framework of the hospital.

Having spent more than twenty-five years in the practice of medicine, I have constantly been overwhelmed by the dignified contribution the nurse plays in the medical and surgical treatment of patients, from the time of admission to the hospital to the time they leave completely cured. I have always found that the warmth, the kindness and understanding that a nurse has for my patients actually determines the speed of convalescence after all of my surgery.

Nurses are now trained in the psychological understanding of the needs of patients who enter hospitals with tremendous fear and anxiety and need the special arm of friendship to support them in the "strange new world" they will temporarily live in.

This leads me to the second part of your letter, which is the training that nurses are now given in order for them to be of such significance to the doctor and to their patients. In this area I truly believe that your husband is correct. I do not think that graduation from high school should be the qualifying time for beginning a nursing career.

© 1968, by Bennett Cerf. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

Your daughter must be trained to become a well-rounded human being with a knowledge of the arts, music and the humanities if she is to take her place in today's medical structure and more importantly in the structure of her personal life.

An additional two years of college would broaden the horizons of your daughter and give her a greater chance to make her personal world and her professional world particularly important ones. After two years of college training she will find that she would be accepted into the better nursing schools all over the United States, and then will probably attain her bachelor's degree in nursing. This is a valuable attainment in the medical and nursing profession.

Perhaps your own physician can arrange for a thorough visit to a modern hospital so that your husband, you and your daughter can be shown the rewards that can come from being a part of this exciting profession. When she has had proper training, for opportunities for advancement, personal security and inner glow are limitless.

Early reports indicate a possibility of an active Asian flu epidemic this winter. Consult your own doctor for the need and time for vaccination.

Dayton Teachers Call Meeting

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The Dayton Classroom Teachers Association has called a meeting for Wednesday morning, a meeting which could result in cancellation of classes that day.

Association President Tom Tucker said the association, representing 1,400 teachers in the city, called for the meeting after school Supt. Wayne Carle refused for the second time to discuss with the association a policy to handle teacher problems.

According to Tucker, the rights of two teachers have been "grossly violated" in the past two weeks.

The Business World

By LISA CRONIN (For John Cuniff)

NEW YORK (AP) — The resolution of paper problems in the nation's stock brokerage industry is turning out to be an even more painful and frustrating process than was foreseen.

Headway is being made when compared with the crisis days of July, and some long range changes in work methods are being made that assure better bookkeeping in the future.

But, in the words of Lee D. Arning, vice president of the New York Stock Exchange, who is optimistic over the long term, the immediate progress hasn't been satisfactory.

Sources close to the situation now estimate that little or no advance was made during September in bringing records up to date and in getting overdue stock certificates into the hands of their owners.

Main obstacles to progress have been the inability to find experienced clerks to process paperwork, and the renewed surge in trading volume.

Average daily volume in September rose to 13.4 million shares from 10.7 million in August. The larger figure cannot yet be handled smoothly. While the old backlog was being reduced, therefore, more paper was being piled on.

High volume, however, is something the exchanges now realize will be around for a while. Up to April 1, the busiest was Black Tuesday, the day of the big crash on Oct. 29, 1929. But since April 1 the figure has been topped 14 times.

Because of this pressure, stock certificates that should flow smoothly from seller to broker to bank to broker to buyer become clogged in the pipeline, misrouted, delayed and lost.

Because of high volume, the August figure of $3.1 billion worth of overdue stock certificates — called fails because the selling broker has failed to deliver them to the buying broker within five days — is expected to rise.

Last Thursday was the final day for brokers to report their September total of outstanding fails. Results won't be released until later this week, but a sampling of 55 firms indicates that ground might have been lost.

This perhaps was the major factor in decisions by the major exchanges to continue Wednesday closings through October. Earlier they had hoped for a return to normal length trading weeks by mid-month.

The long range outlook may be more encouraging.

The crisis in paper has resulted in a fundamental overhauling and modernizing of many firms. More discipline is being ordered by exchanges. And the somewhat greedy orientation of brokers toward sales alone is giving way to a concern for customer service.

A Central Certificate Service, a depository, that is, where stocks held by brokers can be stored, is gradually replacing the old system of running around streets and alleys with bundles of stock. Soon they will be transferred by bookkeeping only.

Prodded by the Securities and Exchange Commission, the once neutral personalities of exchanges have become more aggressive. Self-regulation once was a concept only; now it is more of a reality.

Of 650 New York Exchange member brokers, 46 now are restricted by Exchange orders. Some have been forbidden to advertise for more business. Others have been refused registration for new salesmen. A few firms have had ceilings placed on their volume. Some have been ordered to sell branches.

Only the mute future knows whether these efforts will be successful, but the immediate past gives some measure. "We've made a hell of a lot of progress," said Arning; more, he said, than the statistics might show.

He concedes, however, that no dramatic recovery is in prospect.

All Succumb To Blackmail

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

One of the transcendent ironies of the political campaign is that neither of the major party nominees dares point to a great American success story in the Far East. You have to read the economic reports of the Fuji Bank of Japan, or the laments of the pro-Peking Communists in Singapore, or the news stories of strong new pro-Western leadership in Indonesia and the Philippines, or the accounts of what agricultural experts from Taiwan are doing to build goodwill and spread well-being throughout tropical Africa, or the dispatches from South Korea that tell of nipping North Korean infiltrations in the bud, or the satisfaction expressed in Australia and New Zealand by the local enemies of anti-Asian isolationism, to realize that our holding action in South Vietnam has been a triumph of the Lyndon Johnson-Dean Rusk foreign policy.

The Fuji Bank tells the tale in accents that are optimistic for East Asia as a whole, but a bit rueful for Japan in particular. Under the protection of the American military umbrella, Japan has made terrific strides. But the same American protection has enabled South Korea, Hongkong, Taiwan, Thailand, Pakistan, and India to build up their export industries to the point where they have been stealing important shares of the U.S. market from the Japanese owing to cost advantages derived from lower wage scales. The Fuji Bank complains that the Japanese no longer have the edge in transistor radios, binoculars, dolls, umbrellas, sport shirts, tablecloths, woolen robes, toys, toys, and sweaters. Japanese cars, however, are now competing in the West with the ubiquitous Volkswagen. It's a story of prosperity everywhere outside the orbit of Red China.

Hubert Humphrey and Richard Nixon both know the story. With his able staff of foreign affairs advisers, and his own insights accruing from his own extensive globe trotting, Nixon is surely aware that the most stable contemporary governments are to be found in the ten non-Communist countries in the great arc from Japan through Indonesia to Singapore and Thailand. Not a single one of these countries has had a change of government since 1955.

Nixon would have difficulty making campaign material of this, however, for it all happened under a Democratic administration. But, curiously, Hubert Humphrey can't stress it either. For it is not what the Gene McCarthy and George McGovern and J. William Fullbright Democrats want to hear.

It would argue quite definitely against any U.S. retreat in South Vietnam. With one eye on the McCarthyites, and one ear listening to the bizarre noises made by the Students for a Democratic Society and the Yippies, Hubert doesn't have the nerve to take credit for a real Democratic administration accomplishment.

The story wouldn't help George Wallace and Curtis LeMay, either. For the firming up of the pro-western coalition of Japan, South Korea, Taiwan, Malaysia, Singapore, Thailand, Indonesia, and the Philippines proves that there is no necessity to bomb North Vietnam back to the Stone Age. If we merely sit tight for a little longer we will have won enough of a victory to keep the dominoes from falling.

It's all a little ridiculous that nobody has the nerve to make a good political speech this October that would put the American intervention in Vietnam in a deservedly optimistic perspective.

Nixon could do it without giving total credit to Lyndon Johnson if he, too, weren't trying to dodge the hard-line pose. The proper criticism of the Johnson-Rusk policy would center on General Westmoreland's failure to rebuild the local South Vietnamese police power in territory taken from the Viet Cong. Study groups in South Vietnam have pointed to the need for a network of interconnecting "ambush belts." But if Nixon were to propose doing something about this, he would be accused of trying to create a police state in South Vietnam.

The politicians of both major political parties have, in short, succumbed to the blackmail of the New Left. What a posture for a great country!

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Housing and Urban Development announced Monday selection of 17 more cities for the model cities program, bringing to 125 the number of cities participating in the program.

One of the 17 cities is Youngstown, Ohio, which is to be allowed up to $145,000 for early planning in efforts to rebuild slum sections.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

WHEN GEORGE BERNARD SHAW was a virtual unknown, a prominent London producer turned thumbs-down on a play he had submitted. Many years later when Shaw had become world-famous, the producer begged for a chance to sponsor his newest comedy. Shaw wired back, "Better never than late."

John Barrymore, matinee idol and actor extraordinaire, was a recognized authority on Shakespeare, and frequently delivered lectures on the plays and career of the "bard of Stratford." He had just concluded one such talk at a girls' college and asked for questions, when one girl inquired, "Considering the extreme youth of Romeo and Juliet, do you think it possible that they had any actual physical relationship?" Barrymore answered promptly, "They certainly did in the Chicago company."

A typical example of the new breed of self-reliant, completely independent young men of the new generation—aged fifteen—told his father in ringing tones, "Pop, it's time that I stood on my own two feet and made my own way—but I'm never going to be able to do it on my present allowance."

At a neighborhood bar, in the wee hours of the morning, a chronic stuttermouth announced, "If they r-r-really w-w-wanted to, they c-c-could end this d-d-damn w-w-war in V-V-Viet Nam in about t-t-two w-w-weeks!"

"Hmph," snorted his companion. "That's easy for you to say!"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Our only daughter has wanted to be a nurse since she was a young child. This desire has never left her and now she is about ready to fulfill this ambition. My husband objects to the fact that she wants to go directly to nursing school after her high school graduation. He objects, too, because he feels that the nursing profession may seem glamorous but that nurses are only "servants in a pretty uniform." How can we solve this family problem?

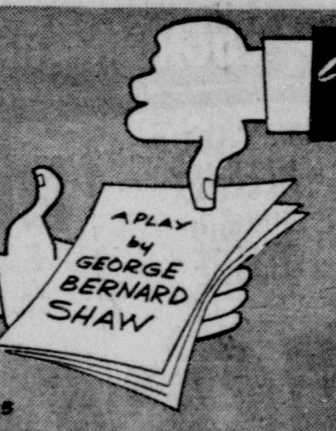

Mrs. M. S., Ohio
Dear Mrs. S., There are two important aspects of the problem you present. The first is your husband's fixed idea about the status of the nurse in medicine today. The nursing profession has, during the past fifty years, progressed to the point where it is now one of the most vital forces in the total recovery of the patient from physical and emotional disorders.

Service, not servility, is the essence of the nurse who is part of the total health team. The role of the nurse today is of major importance in every specialty and phase of medicine within and outside the framework of the hospital.

Having spent more than twenty-five years in the practice of medicine, I have constantly been overwhelmed by the dignified contribution the nurse plays in the medical and surgical treatment of patients, from the time of admission to the hospital to the time they leave completely cured. I have always found that the warmth, the kindness and understanding that a nurse has for my patients actually determines the speed of convalescence after all of my surgery.

Nurses are now trained in the psychological understanding of the needs of patients who enter hospitals with tremendous fear and anxiety and need the special arm of friendship to support them in the "strange new world" they will temporarily live in.

This leads me to the second part of your letter, which is the training that nurses are now given in order for them to be of such significance to the doctor and to their patients. In this area I truly believe that your husband is correct. I do not think that graduation from high school should be the qualifying time for beginning a nursing career.

The Business World

By LISA CRONIN (For John Cuniff)

NEW YORK (AP) — The resolution of paper problems in the nation's stock brokerage industry is turning out to be an even more painful and frustrating process than was foreseen.

Headway is being made when compared with the crisis days of July, and some long range changes in work methods are being made that assure better bookkeeping in the future.

But, in the words of Lee D. Arning, vice president of the New York Stock Exchange, who is optimistic over the long term, the immediate progress hasn't been satisfactory.

Sources close to the situation now estimate that little or no advance was made during September in bringing records up to date and in getting overdue stock certificates into the hands of their owners.

Main obstacles to progress have been the inability to find experienced clerks to process paperwork, and the renewed surge in trading volume.

Average daily volume in September rose to 13.4 million shares from 10.7 million in August. The larger figure cannot yet be handled smoothly. While the old backlog was being reduced, therefore, more paper was being piled on.

High volume, however, is something the exchanges now realize will be around for a while. Up to April 1, the busiest was Black Tuesday, the day of the big crash on Oct. 29, 1929. But since April 1 the figure has been topped 14 times.

Because of such pressure, stock certificates that should flow smoothly from seller to broker to bank to broker to buyer become clogged in the pipeline, misrouted, delayed and lost.

Because of high volume, the August figure of $3.1 billion worth of overdue stock certificates—called fails because the selling broker has failed to deliver them to the buying broker within five days—is expected to rise.

Last Thursday was the final day for brokers to report their September total of outstanding fails. Results won't be released until later this week, but a sampling of 55 firms indicates that ground might have been lost.

This perhaps was the major factor in decisions by the major exchanges to continue Wednesday closings through October. Earlier they had hoped for a return to normal length trading weeks by mid-month.

The long range outlook may be more encouraging.

The crisis in paper has resulted in a fundamental overhauling and modernizing of many firms. More discipline is being ordered by exchanges. And the somewhat greedy orientation of brokers toward sales alone is giving way to a concern for customer service.

A Central Certificate Service, a depository, that is, where stocks held by brokers can be stored, is gradually replacing the old system of running around streets and alleys with bundles of stock. Soon they will be transferred by bookkeeping only.

Prodded by the Securities and Exchange Commission, the once neutral personalities of exchanges have become more aggressive. Self-regulation once was a concept only; now it is more of a reality.

Of 650 New York Exchange member brokers, 46 now are restricted by Exchange orders. Some have been forbidden to advertise for more business. Others have been refused registration for new salesmen. A few firms have had ceilings placed on their volume. Some have been ordered to sell branches.

Only the mute future knows whether these efforts will be successful, but the immediate past gives some measure. "We've made a hell of a lot of progress," said Arning; more, he said, than the statistics might show.

He concedes, however, that no dramatic recovery is in prospect.

All Succumb To Blackmail

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

One of the transcendent ironies of the political campaign is that neither of the major party nominees dares point to a great American success story in the Far East. You have to read the economic reports of the Fuji Bank of Japan, or the laments of the pro-Peking Communists in Singapore, or the news stories of strong new pro-Western leadership in Indonesia and the Philippines, or the accounts of what agricultural experts from Taiwan are doing to build good will and spread well-being throughout tropical Africa, or the dispatches from South Korea that tell of nipping North Korean infiltrations in the bud, or the satisfaction expressed in Australia and New Zealand by the local enemies of anti-Asian isolationism, to realize that our holding action in South Vietnam has been a triumph of the Lyndon Johnson-Dean Rusk foreign policy.

The Fuji Bank tells the tale in accents that are optimistic for East Asia as a whole, but a bit rueful for Japan in particular. Under the protection of the American military umbrella, Japan has made terrific strides. But the same American protection has enabled South Korea, Hongkong, Taiwan, Thailand, Pakistan, and India to build up their export industries to the point where they have been stealing important shares of the U.S. market from the Japanese owing to cost advantages derived from lower wage scales. The Fuji Bank complains that the Japanese no longer have the edge in transistor radios, binoculars, dolls, umbrellas, sport shirts, tablecloths, woolen rugs, toys, toupees, and sweaters. Japanese cars, however, are now competing in the West with the ubiquitous Volkswagen. It's a story of prosperity everywhere outside the orbit of Red China.

Hubert Humphrey and Richard Nixon both know the story. With his able staff of foreign affairs advisers, and his own insights accruing from his own extensive globe trotting, Nixon is surely aware that the most stable contemporary governments are to be found in the ten non-Communist countries in the great arc from Japan through Indonesia to Singapore and Thailand. Not a single one of these countries has had a change of government since 1965.

Nixon would have difficulty making campaign material of this, however, for it all happened under a Democratic administration. But, curiously, Hubert Humphrey can't stress it either. For it is not what the Gene McCarthy and George McGovern and J. William Fullbright Democrats want to hear.

It would argue quite definitely against any U.S. retreat in South Vietnam. With one eye on the McCarthyites, and one ear listening to the bizarre noises made by the Students for a Democratic Society and the Yippies, Hubert doesn't have the nerve to take credit for a real Democratic administration accomplishment.

The story wouldn't help George Wallace and Curtis LeMay, either. For the firming up of the pro-Western coalition of Japan, South Korea, Taiwan, Malaysia, Singapore, Thailand, Indonesia, and the Philippines proves that there is no necessity to bomb North Vietnam back to the Stone Age. If we merely sit tight for a little longer we will have won enough of a victory to keep the dominoes from falling.

It's all a little ridiculous that nobody has the nerve to make a good political speech this October that would put the American intervention in Vietnam in a deservedly optimistic perspective.

Nixon could do it without giving total credit to Lyndon Johnson if he, too, weren't trying to dodge the hard-line pose. The proper criticism of the Johnson-Rusk policy would center on General Westmoreland's failure to rebuild the local South Vietnamese police power in territory taken from the Viet Cong. Study groups in South Vietnam have pointed to the need for a network of interconnecting "ambush belts." But if Nixon were to propose doing something about this, he would be accused of trying to create a police state in South Vietnam.

The politicians of both major political parties have, in short, succumbed to the blackmail of the New Left. What a posture for a great country!

Dayton Teachers Call Meeting

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The Dayton Classroom Teachers Association has called a meeting for Wednesday morning, a meeting which could result in cancellation of classes that day.

Association President Tom Tucker said the association, representing 1,400 teachers in the city, called for the meeting after school Supt. Wayne Carle refused for the second time to discuss with the association a policy to handle teacher problems.

According to Tucker, the rights of two teachers have been "grossly violated" in the past two weeks.

Humphrey Campaign Erratic Despite Signs Of Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although Hubert H. Humphrey says he is pleased with the "momentum" of his Democratic presidential campaign, the vice president's drive for the White House is not completely free of the problems that made the first week a disaster.

Misstatements by the candidate and antiwar heckling have all but disappeared. But Humphrey is still unable to curb the love of talking that bores some audiences, and scheduling is far from perfect.

Republican nominee Richard M. Nixon is following a formula combining downtown and suburban rallies in the nation's metropolitan areas, but Humphrey still has a tendency to wander around, frequently making poor use of the time which grows shorter each day.

One strategy remains clear and central: the effort to goad Nixon into a debate. But the GOP candidate continues to refuse. Humphrey's advisers claim they have put Nixon into an untenable position, that as the polls show his lead dropping, he will eventually have to give in.

Humphrey's campaign schedules, presumably designed to enable him to bring his case before as many voters as possible, remain highly erratic.

There are sensible days like last Monday, when the vice president appeared before good crowds in three Pennsylvania industrial centers, and largely wasted ones like last Tuesday when he spent most of the day in Washington making a foreign policy speech before flying to Utica, N.Y., for an evening campaign speech.

This week, he opens his campaigning with a trip tonight to Evansville, Ind., an area where there is considered to be strong support for third-party candidate George C. Wallace in a state Humphrey's top aides feel he has little chance to win.

This week, Humphrey has some suburban campaigning scheduled, in the St. Louis and Detroit areas and through Connecticut.

As for Humphrey himself, sometimes, such as at a Scranton, Pa., rally last Monday or in two New York speeches Thursday, he is vibrant, hard-hitting and wins enthusiastic reactions.

But in between those two efforts, among the best of the entire Humphrey campaign, he lost a predominantly youthful audience in Utica, N.Y., by talking too long, unloaded a 67-minute effort to a druggists convention in Boston and mesmerized New York's Liberal party by taking a brisk text and approximately doubling it in delivery.

Former Warren County Clerk Faces Charges

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—Clifford Beckett, former Warren County clerk, has been indicted on three charges in the Aug. 21 death of Andy Garland from nearby Springboro.

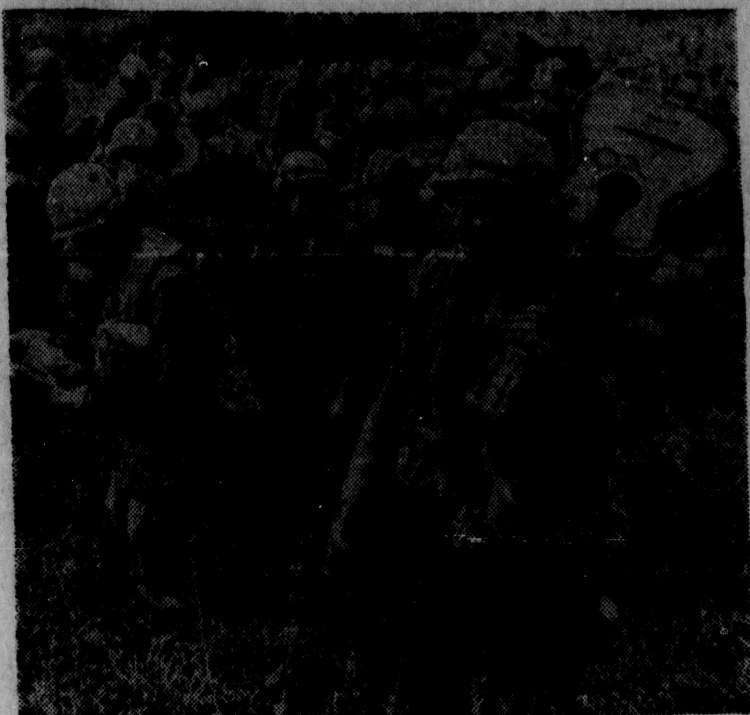

A Warren County grand jury returned true bills Saturday against Beckett, clerk for 31 years until he resigned Sept. 1, for first degree vehicular homicide, leaving the scene of an accident and driving while intoxicated.

Garland, who was 10, was struck and killed by Beckett's auto as he walked his bicycle near his home, police said.

The grand jury also indicted James K. Perkins, 45, of nearby Franklin and Anna J. Compton, 19, Lebanon, for second degree murder.

Perkins is charged in the Aug. 4 fatal shooting of Charles Hawkins of Franklin, and Mrs. Compton was charged in the shooting death of her husband, Harold, July 27.

NEW YORK (AP) — Milti Gaynor came along Monday night with an NBC special that was an impressive showcase for her talents. The show was handsome, lighthearted and bouncy.

She moved from country-style comedienne to femme fatale, from singer to dancer to sketch actress.

She danced numbers that ranged from jigs in cotton dress and sunbonnet to production numbers in a swirl of chiffon and feathers. She sang funny songs and sad songs. She had an album of objectionable people in one sketch and they were headed by the telephone bore who starts, "Guess who this is?"

Most amusing comedy bits kidded old movies—Rosalind Russell in her 1940 lady-executive films and Doris Day in her innocent maiden period were fiercely ribbed.

The hour was essentially a one-woman show. The sets were lavish and so were some of Miss Gaynor's costumes. The guest stars—George Hamilton and Phil Harris—didn't have much to do.

The three astronauts of Apollo 7 may not be the best television cameramen around, but those live shots seen on the three television networks Monday morning must be the most exciting shots of the year.

Viewers, with a little help from the control center, were able to see the crew in their space capsule and could read Capt. Walter Schirra's little sign: "Keep those cards and letters coming in, folks." The shots taken through the capsule window of the earth were hard to make out. But the fact that such a transmission was possible is pretty thrilling.

"Cat Ballou," an ABC rerun of a fairly recent hit movie, was the most popular program broadcast during the first week in October, according to a Nielsen report issued Monday.

Other programs in the top 10 were CBS's "Gomer Pyle"; NBC's "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" and "Julia"; CBS's "Here's Lucy," "Mayberry R.F.D." and "The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour"; NBC's "Bonanza"; CBS's "Ed Sullivan Show," and NBC's "Dean Martin Show."

The first CBS Playhouse drama of the new season, J.P. Miller's original, "The People Next Door," will be broadcast tonight and is an earnest effort to explore the motives behind youth's rebellion, the use of mind-warping drugs, and the lack of understanding between the older and younger generations.

The drama, with an excellent cast including Lloyd Bridges and Kim Hunter, has a strong point of view and probably will be controversial. It is a tragedy and it places the blame directly. The program may, in fact, produce some angry letters from parents who do not see eye to eye with playwright Miller. It is certainly worth watching, if only for the fine performance of a young actress, Deborah Winters, as a teen-ager bent on self-destruction.

This year, International Newspaperboy Day coincides with the opening of the 1968 Summer Olympics in Mexico City. So this is a fitting time to give some thought to the things that make America—and Americans—great. Olympic decathlon champion Rafer Johnson puts it this way: "When I was carrying newspapers, I soon realized you've got to deliver in a way that's dependable. The job usually isn't easy, but no work worth doing is worth less than your best. America's newspaperboys are learning that it takes something extra to compete in today's world. I wish them success with this reminder: The winning formula is study, work, training to be ready."

NEWSPAPERBOYS GET AHEAD

This year, International Newspaperboy Day coincides with the opening of the 1968 Summer Olympics in Mexico City. So this is a fitting time to give some thought to the things that make America—and Americans—great. Olympic decathlon champion Rafer Johnson puts it this way: "When I was carrying newspapers, I soon realized you've got to deliver in a way that's dependable. The job usually isn't easy, but no work worth doing is worth less than your best. America's newspaperboys are learning that it takes something extra to compete in today's world. I wish them success with this reminder: The winning formula is study, work, training to be ready."

The Treasury Department's U.S. Savings Bonds Division proudly joins in this traditional salute to the nation's newspaperboys. They've helped promote Savings Bonds and Stamps, and are buying Bonds themselves out of earnings—in many cases, to help pay for college some day. Newspaperboys know what's happening. And they'll help to make the future better for all of us.

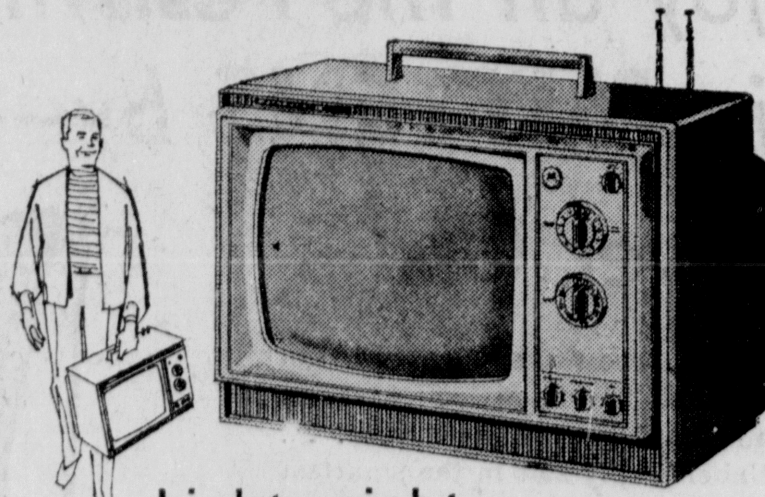

The U.S. Government does not pay for this advertisement. It is presented as a public service in cooperation with The Department of the Treasury and The Advertising Council.

Twice monthly, on the second and fourth Mondays of each month, Pickaway County women of low income families are given an opportunity to have cancer checkups. These checkups include Pap smear tests, breast examinations, and pelvic examinations.

LeMay On Way To Viet Theater For Fact-Finding

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gen. Curtis E. LeMay is flying to Saigon today on a trip he said is not aimed at getting votes but to talk with U.S. fighting men and "be brought up to date" about the war.

LeMay, vice presidential candidate of the American Independent party, expects to spend three or four days in Vietnam, at the request of the party's presidential candidate, George C. Wallace.

At a brief news conference after arriving from Washington at San Francisco International Airport Monday night, LeMay said he thought the Wallace campaign was going well.

Asked whether pursuit of a hard-line policy in Vietnam might not bring Communist China into the conflict, the retired Air Force chief of staff replied: "I don't think there is much of a chance... there is some risk, but it's worth taking. They have troubles of their own, and they have no weapons that can hurt us now... every time we have stood up to them, we have done all right."

The 61-year-old general mentioned Taiwan, Cuba and Berlin to stress his point. When asked about Korea, he answered: "If we didn't do all right there it was because of traitors."

Asked for names, he replied: "You know who they were as well as I do."

LeMay said he wants to "see people of each of the services" while in Vietnam. "I want them to talk to me," he said. "I want to be brought up to date."

"No one has been thinking of the man in uniform... I think they are entitled to have someone stand up for them," he said.

Less than two hours after arriving here LeMay's party of 12 took off for Saigon.

On Sunday morning a three member panel presented a workshop entitled "Organization Of A Unit PAP Program". The panelists and their subjects were: Clinic Oriented — Mrs. George Walker, Executive Director of the local unit; Doctor's Office Oriented — Mr. Robert Minshall from the Fayette County Unit and Metropolitan Oriented by Dr. Edward L. Principal Alfred Gabriel spoke to the parents to caution their children on loading and unloading the school buses. Fast thinking on the part of one bus driver may have saved one child's life because an oncoming car did not use caution on approaching a school bus driver, according to Gabriel.

The speaker for the meeting was Dr. R. G. Smith, who told of his trip to Ecuador and of the sick people that the S. S. Hope has helped.

Winners of the pumpkin and apple pie contest were:

Pumpkin — Mrs. Doyle Fouch, Mrs. Mary Wilhelm, Mrs. Raymond Moats, Apple — Mrs. Raymond Moats, Mrs. Ned Boldozer and a tie for third between Mrs. Ned Boldozer and number 24.

Committees were announced for the Halloween Carnival scheduled 7 to 10 p.m. Oct. 26.

Agnew Attacks 'Permissiveness'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, says "the total permissive atmosphere that is sweeping this country" can be corrected by separating "civil rights from civil irresponsibility."

The Republican vice presidential candidate offered his solution to "irresponsible dissent" Sunday while appearing on a CBS television news show, "Face the Nation."

Agnew said "as a matter of principle and practice" that to condone lawbreakers even when a law is unjust cannot be allowed.

Guilty Verdict Means Execution

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—James Clapper Jr., 40, was found guilty Monday night of second-degree murder in the shotgun slaying last February of his 24-year-old son-in-law, Kenneth Kirker of Coshocton.

Licking County Common Pleas Judge Walter U. Bolton delayed sentencing until later in the week. Clapper had been charged with first-degree murder in the slaying, which took place in his home near Buckeye Lake.

State School Board Issues New Policy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Board of Education reversed an annexation policy it has adhered to for 10 years Monday, saying that transfer of territory between school districts must be considered on its educational merits only.

In the past, whenever a municipal area was annexed it was the duty of the gaining city school district to apply for school territory in the newly annexed area unless the losing district could show cause against such action.

The new policy allows the transferred land to be initiated by either the gaining or losing district in a municipal annexation.

If a dispute arises, the state board has the authority to require both districts to begin long-range cooperative planning for the educational development of the disputed area.

The state board released a total of $17.5 million in construction grants to nine Ohio districts including $3,789,873 to Wayne Township Local School District in Montgomery County and $3,620,986 to Madison Local District in Franklin County, the two largest grants to school districts in Ohio history.

Other school district receiving grants, their county and the amount involved:

Madison Local, Lake $2,631,362; Amherst Exem VIII, Lorain, $1,734,444; Trimble Local, Athens, $1,504,794; Mount Orab Local, Brown, $1,359,541; Chippewa Local, Wayne, $1,151,678; Clermont Northern Local, Clermont, $879,553, and Southeast Local, Portage, $850,219.

4 Workers Appeal Fines For 'Speed'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four machine operators fined by the United Auto Workers Union, AFL-CIO, for going over production quotas set by the union were granted a hearing today by the Supreme Court.

The workers want the court to judge the union in violation of federal labor law. Their appeal will be heard later this term.

The four, Russell Scofield, Lawrence Hansen, Emil Stefanec and George Kozbit, were tried by the union and fined $50 to $100 for violating the union rule requiring workers at the Wisconsin Motor Corp. in Milwaukee to limit production.

The National Labor Relations Board dismissed their complaint against the UAW in 1964. The U.S. Circuit Court in Chicago ruled against the workers last April.

The rule, in effect since 1944, keeps incentive pay for piece work within limits.

The union said the objective is to prevent bitter contests between workers and to avert debilitating speed-ups. The workers said the fine "effectively inhibits the employee from earning the money the employer is willing to pay."

Find Man Guilty In Murder Case

CALDWELL, Ohio (AP) — A verdict of guilty was returned late Monday in the first-degree murder trial of Samuel C. Edgell, 21, Massillon, in Noble County Common Pleas Court here.

The jury did not recommend mercy, making the death penalty mandatory.

Edgell was charged in the March 27 robbery - stabbing of Matthew Zilka, 60, of Buffalo, Guernsey County.

Blind Dates Big Success In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Some of the girls appeared nervous but the nation's future military men looked calm under pressure as Chicago provided 1,733 of its fairest as dates for members of the Air Force Academy and Naval Academy at a ball.

The cadets and midshipmen were in the city Saturday for the fourth annual Navy-Air Force football game in Soldier Field. Air Force won 26-20.

That night the officer candidates turned their attention to the social graces at the ball as guests of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

The girls were selected from about 6,000 who answered the city's request for volunteers. Col. Jack Reilly, Daley's director of special events, said the girls came from as far away as Minnesota but most were from Chicago. They were matched with their escorts according to height, weight and general interests.

A Mundein College coed said she volunteered simply because, "it was something different."

But another girl said she signed up because, "when you put a uniform on a boy he is twice as handsome."

A young switchboard operator expressed her nervousness as she waited to meet her blind date. "I'm going through the torture test," she said. "What will he look like? What will we talk about?"

The cadets and midshipmen seemed to view the event in a more realistic light.

"There's not much else you can do when you need a date," a cadet said.

LeMay On Way To Viet Theater For Fact-Finding

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gen. Curtis E. LeMay is flying to Saigon today on a trip he said is not aimed at getting votes but to talk with U.S. fighting men and "be brought up to date" about the war.

LeMay, vice presidential candidate of the American Independent party, expects to spend three or four days in Vietnam, at the request of the party's presidential candidate, George C. Wallace.

At a brief news conference after arriving from Washington at San Francisco International Airport Monday night, LeMay said he thought the Wallace campaign was going well.

Asked whether pursuit of a hard-line policy in Vietnam might not bring Communist China into the conflict, the retired Air Force chief of staff replied: "I don't think there is much of a chance... there is some risk, but it's worth taking. They have troubles of their own, and they have no weapons that can hurt us now... every time we have stood up to them, we have done all right."

The 61-year-old general mentioned Taiwan, Cuba and Berlin to stress his point. When asked about Korea, he answered: "If we didn't do all right there it was because of traitors."

Asked for names, he replied: "You know who they were as well as I do."

State School Board Issues New Policy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Board of Education reversed an annexation policy it has adhered to for 10 years Monday, saying that transfer of territory between school districts must be considered on its educational merits only.

In the past, whenever a municipal area was annexed it was the duty of the gaining city school district to apply for school territory in the newly annexed area unless the losing district could show cause against such action.

The new policy allows the transferred land to be initiated by either the gaining or losing district in a municipal annexation.

If a dispute arises, the state board has the authority to require both districts to begin long-range cooperative planning for the educational development of the disputed area.

The state board released a total of $17.5 million in construction grants to nine Ohio districts including $3,789,873 to Wayne Township Local School District in Montgomery County and $3,620,986 to Madison Local District in Franklin County, the two largest grants to school districts in Ohio history.

Dispute Young Charges GIs Are Flunkies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense Department officials have disputed a charge by Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, that 450,000 soldiers in Vietnam are doing paper work and only 100,000 are fighting.

The department said about 60 per cent of the U. S. forces are engaged in some sort of combat, including such normally nonfighting units as quartermaster truck companies which operate in combat zones.

Young said in a letter to constituents, "the U. S. Army has become a vast organizational structure." He called for a return of the military establishment to the basic concept of fighting.

The Ohio Senator charged that "generals and colonels are so devoted to charts, writing reports and holding briefings that nearly nine of 10 GIs are simply servants or flunkies."

Brothers Continue Search For Dad Lost 19 Months

REDDING, Calif. (AP) — "We won't stop looking even if it takes a lifetime," says Alvin Oien, Jr., of the search for his father, a 59-year-old Portland, Ore., hotel man whose single-engine plane crashed into a snow-covered mountain on March 11, 1967.

Seven months later the bodies of Oien's wife, Phyllis, 45, and daughter, Carla, 16, were found in the wreckage. A jointly written diary told how they had survived for 54 days awaiting a rescue that never came.

An entry five days after the crash said: "Al left to go for help." The diary said he was suffering from fractures of the right arm and several ribs. Neither Oien nor his body has been turned up.

"As far as I'm concerned, he's alive until we find him," declares Alvin, Jr., 33, an airline pilot, of Westlake, Tex. Along with his brothers Ron, 28, and Chuck, 26 both of Portland, he spends his spare time searching the thick brush around the scene of the accident.

"With a broken right arm," says the oldest son, "you would reach out with your left arm to hold onto branches to keep from sliding down the mountain. So we figure Dad must have taken off to the left.

"We're now concentrating on working south through the brush side by side, inch by inch down the slope for two miles. The probability is he got stuck in the first two miles."

Brush at the crash scene, on a 5,995-foot peak in the Trinity Mountains 35 miles west of here, is 15 to 20 feet deep at times. The senior Oien was an experienced woodsman.

The Oien plane was headed to San Francisco from Portland when it crashed March 11, 1967, apparently after the wings iced up. The diary's first entry said that in addition to Oien's injuries, Phyllis had a broken left arm and Carla "a hurt back, left kidney, sore right ankle."

The food ran out March 21. The winter storms raged on and on, and aerial and ground searching parties finally gave up. Alvin, Jr. kept up an aerial search for 107 days.

Finally, last October, a hunter stumbled on the wreckage. In the diary, next to April 30, was Carla's notation: "This would have been my 16th birthday." The final entries came on May 4.

The brothers study and re-study the diary, hoping to spot some clue they may have overlooked in its 100 pages.

"We try to read between the lines," says Alvin, Jr., "Sure, we know the words by heart but

Students Get A Button For Boredom

CINCINNATI (AP) — If students at the University of Cincinnati become lost or bored with a lecture, they simply push a button to signify their displeasure.

The button, attached to a "communicator," lights up a combination of linking lights at the front of the classroom to help instructors determine the mood of classes.

The classes of Dorelle Heisel, a psychology instructor, are currently experimenting with the mechanism developed by Procter & Gamble here.

"It has been found that only about 20 per cent of a lecture class is listening at any one time," said Mrs. Heisel. "The lecture, however, is a valuable medium for communicating information. The communicator permitting students to influence can increase its effectiveness by an explanation while it is in progress."

Mrs. Heisel explained that the device helps improve effectiveness of teaching methods and she foresees a large use for it in the future.

"As the device is totally experimental, its complete value is yet to be discovered," she said. "As a response indicator, however, it has created what may become a new media in the classroom."

3 Major Candidates Fight Hard For 26 Ohio Votes

By DON BANDY
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey is being squeezed from all sides in his efforts to win Ohio's 26 electoral votes for president.

Richard M. Nixon, the Republican nominee, is given the edge now in a state where Democrats outnumber Republicans. Republican leaders are not hesitant in predicting smooth sailing for Nixon in the short time remaining before the Nov. 5 election.

Democrats are trying desperately to overcome Nixon's popularity in one of the seven large "battleground" states that probably will decide the outcome, and to knock down the growing support for George C. Wallace among blue collar workers.

The party is still saddled with some dissident Democrats who do not believe Humphrey is a substitute for Sen. Eugene McCarthy. It also is threatened with strong reports of a white backlash from conservative Democrats upset by Negro disturbances.

Some observers believe Humphrey may finish third in Ohio, behind Nixon and Wallace. Secretary of State Ted W. Brown has forecast a record number of 4.4 million votes, and predicts that Wallace will receive 25 per cent of them, finishing ahead of Humphrey, but behind Nixon.

Republicans from State Party Chairman John S. Andrews on down, confident of victory, are issuing a note of warning to head off any complacency.

"We're not taking this for granted by any means," says a state party source. Andrews himself promised there will be no let up until the election.

"There is a spirit of harmony within the party this year in contrast to 1964" when Barry Goldwater was the GOP standard bearer, Andrews said. "We believe that Nixon and Saxbe (William B. Saxbe, GOP senate candidate) are ahead and we see the opportunity for victory up and down the ballot."

State Sen. Theodore M. Gray, coordinator of Ohio United Citizens for Nixon-Agnew, said, "We feel confident Nixon is doing well." Gray said a Republican field man from Washington, who traveled in the state recently, reported he was amazed at the cooperation among Republicans and the various Nixon committees.

"Normally you just don't find this kind of cooperation and enthusiasm," Gray quoted the man as saying.

Gray and others reported it's hard to predict how many votes Wallace will collect, but that he will finish third. "Wallace is a threat," says Gray, "but not enough to keep Nixon from winning the state."

As part of his heavy campaigning in Ohio, Nixon has scheduled a two-day whistle-stop train tour through the state Oct. 21-22.

Many feel that the third party candidacy of Wallace, former Alabama governor, will prevent any of the candidates from getting a majority of the votes.

Polls show Nixon winning the state and voter registration apparently is in favor of the former vice president. Registration was up in Cincinnati and Columbus, traditionally GOP strongholds, while it was down in northeastern Ohio—Cleveland, Youngstown, Akron—which has always been Democratic. It also was down in Toledo, another Democratic bastion.

But Democrats are highly optimistic and hope to derail Nixon.

"Those who are comparing this year's election to 1960 are off on a wrong tangent," says State Democratic Chairman Eugene P. O'Grady. "Just because Nixon won then doesn't mean he's going to win again." As the GOP nominee against John F. Kennedy in 1960, Nixon carried the state by 273,000 votes, the only northern industrial state he won.

O'Grady added that "the Humphrey campaign has begun to turn in Ohio. It's on an upward swing, while Nixon is declining and Wallace is slipping."

O'Grady, who has been stumping the state for Humphrey, says this is due partly to Humphrey's proposal for a conditional halt to the bombing of North Vietnam.

O'Grady and other Democrats, such as Ohio AFL-CIO president Frank W. King, lace their conversations with the word "Concern."

Both feel the voters "are becoming more concerned" as the election draws near, and that Humphrey is the only candidate who can end the war and stop the rising crime rate.

"In Ohio," King said, "I'm beginning to see that people have much more concern in the choice between the three men." He added, however, that Wallace has "more strength than I would like to see."

King has mounted a massive anti-Wallace campaign, distributing more than five million pieces of literature to rank and file union members.

Both Republicans and Democrats will be throwing their big guns into the northeastern area late this month. Nixon and Humphrey are scheduled to campaign in that section again.

Democrats normally can count on northeastern Ohio, but to win the state, they must win big there to offset the down-state Republican margins. On the other hand, a break-even vote in northeast would virtually assure Republicans of a state victory.

It may not be easy for Democrats in that area this year. Summit County Chairman Robert Blakemore, a staunch Humphrey supporter, says he has received reports that some labor union locals in the Akron area may go for Wallace by as much as 50-75 per cent. Similar reports have come from Canton, Alliance and Massillon, all areas where Wallace has campaigned.

Cuyahoga County (Cleveland) Republicans began a straw vote of 26 county precincts last month, and early returns shows precincts that voted heavily Democratic in May now favor Nixon, then Wallace and then Humphrey.

The Democrats face a possible white backlash in the Cleveland area as the result of Negro disturbances, including a violent outbreak July 23 that left three white policemen and seven others dead.

The Wallace organization has sent a key campaign worker, Sage Lyons, into the state to run Wallace's Ohio campaign. Lyons has opened a state headquarters in Columbus.

Lyons, who says Wallace and his running mate, retired Air Force Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, reported that the Wallace ticket has strong support in the northeastern area, heavily populated by blue collar workers.

Also, Lyons said, rank and file union members in Dayton in southwestern Ohio have paid for 12 billboards out of their own pockets to promote Wallace.

Most of the state's large newspapers have endorsed Nixon, including the Cleveland Plain Dealer, Cleveland Press, Columbus Dispatch, Cincinnati Enquirer and Cincinnati Post & Times-Star. The Dayton Dailey News has endorsed Humphrey.

Biafran Civilians Losers In War

IKOT EKPENE, Biafra (AP) — Screaming vultures circled overhead while seven members of a foreign observer team looked at corpses of Biafran soldiers in this ghost town 25 miles from the last secessionist stronghold at Umuahia.

The Nigerian army command claimed the Biafrans were driven out of the town early this month after a short occupation. But the fighting is far from over and the observers heard an occasional shot during their five-hour stay.

"We hold Ikot Ekpene during the day," said a Nigerian officer. "We concede it to the rebels during the night."

The observers—from the United Nations, the Organization of African Unity, Britain, Canada, Poland and Sweden—were invited by the Nigerian government to investigate charges of genocide by Biafra and to watch the conduct of federal troops.

Thousands of refugees, mainly old women, crippled men and reed-thin children are swarming into the federal areas after months of hiding in the dense rain forests. Some observers, who did not wish to be identified, said the refugees were dying at a rate of 20 per 1,000.

The observers saw hundreds of children too weak to stand. Many were in advanced stages of malnutrition. One young boy lay dying on the roadside. Others with emaciated bodies barely could crawl.

The Nigerian 3rd Commando Division and the Red Cross are caring for about 250,000 persons in the area. The Red Cross estimated another 200,000 are not being cared for because they are not regarded officially as refugees.

In forward areas there are another 130,000 civilians housed in churches and makeshift camps. Observers said the Nigerian army has a serious problem of feeding and protecting them. They said the refugees fear Biafran infiltrators who may kill them for seeking safety behind federal lines.

The Red Cross team, headed by Theodore Sachan of Kiel, Germany, is hampered by lack of medical facilities. It was providing refugees with one meal daily, and one member said children's deaths had declined but still remained high.

In Port Harcourt, before observers drove to Ikot Ekpene, the Nigerian army displayed officers and men in fresh clean shirts who they said were Biafrans.

"Show them how happy you are," ordered Col. Ayo Ariyo, sector commander.

The men started singing "Oh Lord, Show Us the Way."

One soldier, who surrendered, Israel Osafor, said his comrades were weary of war but a hard core was determined to fight to the death.

He said retreating Biafrans told civilians that federal troops would slaughter them. He said the Biafrans were herding the civilians toward Umuahia, which is the target of the final Nigerian push.

Attempted Panama Revolt Against Junta A Failure

PANAMA (AP) — The Panamanian junta appeared to be firmly in control today after a call from deposed President Arnulfo Arias for total war against the new government failed to produce any sign of organized resistance.

A spokesman for the National Guard, the country's army, said the country was quiet. Heavily armed guards patrolled the capital Monday.

Arias, overthrown Friday 11 days after his inauguration, remained in the safety of the U.S. controlled Canal Zone. He and about 80 supporters, including members of his cabinet, are registered as "guests," a canal company spokesman said.

The U.S. State Department said it did "not condone the call to arms" by the ousted president. Previously Secretary of State Dean Rusk had expressed "profound concern" over the removal of a constitutionally elected chief of state.

The leader of the coup and Panama's new provisional president, Col. Jose M. Pinilla, 49, was directing affairs of state from the heavily guarded presidential palace. With him was Col. Bolivar Urrutia, second in command of the National Guard and a member of the junta.

Gen. Bolivar Vallarino, who retired as head of the guard on the day of the coup, issued a statement saying he did not take part in the coup but was in accord with the "difficult, noble and honorable mission" assumed by the guard.

Arias, he said, was overthrown because he had tried to set up a dictatorship and had interfered with the guard's promotion process.

It was the third time in three decades that the military had ousted Arias from the presidency.

Hanoi Likes Bundy Call For Bomb Halt

PARIS (AP) — A North Vietnamese spokesman described as realistic today the recommendation of former U.S. presidential adviser McGeorge Bundy that America halt its air raids on North Vietnam.

Nguyen Thanh Le, press officer for Hanoi's peace talks delegation, was referring to remarks Bundy made Saturday in Greencastle, Ind.

Asked to comment, Le said: "We consider it realistic. The statement has positive aspects."

Le did not say that a U.S. bombing halt would open the way to serious peace discussions. North Vietnam's envoys here have insisted that the United States must cease "all other acts of war"—reconnaissance flights, for example—as well as the air attacks.

Bundy, former aide to President Johnson, is now president of the Ford Foundation.

Le also was queried about the Vietnam policy of former Air Force Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, the running mate of independent presidential candidate George C. Wallace.

"Gen. LeMay is extremely bellicose," Le replied. "He has urged that North Vietnam be bombed back to the Stone Age."

"For the past three years, the United States has mobilized planes and warships to attack North Vietnam. Nevertheless, the United States has suffered more and more defeats."

"North Vietnam has not been sent back to the Stone Age; but on the contrary has made great progress in its development."

Brothers Continue Search For Dad Lost 19 Months

REDDING, Calif. (AP) — "We won't stop looking even if it takes a lifetime," says Alvin Oien, Jr., of the search for his father, a 59-year-old Portland, Ore., hotel man whose single-engine plane crashed into a snow-covered mountain on March 11, 1967.

Seven months later the bodies of Oien's wife, Phyllis, 45, and daughter, Carla, 16, were found in the wreckage. A jointly written diary told how they had survived for 54 days awaiting a rescue that never came.

An entry five days after the crash said: "Al left to go for help." The diary said he was suffering from fractures of the right arm and several ribs. Neither Oien nor his body has ever turned up.

"As far as I'm concerned, he's alive until we find him," declares Alvin, Jr., 33, an airline pilot, of Westlake, Tex. Along with his brothers Ron, 28, and Chuck, 26 both of Portland, he spends his spare time searching the thick brush around the scene of the accident.

"With a broken right arm," says the oldest son, "you would reach out with your left arm to hold onto branches to keep from sliding down the mountain. So we figure Dad must have taken off to the left.

"We're now concentrating on working south through the brush side by side, inch by inch down the slope for two miles. The probability is he got stuck in the first two miles."

Brush at the crash scene, on a 5,995-foot peak in the Trinity Mountains 35 miles west of here, is 15 to 20 feet deep at times. The senior Oien was an experienced woodsman.

The Oien plane was headed to San Francisco from Portland when it crashed March 11, 1967, apparently after the wings iced up. The diary's first entry said that in addition to Oien's injuries, Phyllis had a broken left arm and Carla "a hurt back, left kidney, sore right ankle."

The food ran out March 21. The winter storms raged on and on, and aerial and ground searching parties finally gave up. Alvin, Jr. kept up an aerial search for 107 days.

Finally, last October, a hunter stumbled on the wreckage. In the diary, next to April 30, was Carla's notation: "This would have been my 16th birthday." The final entries came on May 4.

The brothers study and re-study the diary, hoping to spot some clue they may have overlooked in its 100 pages.

"We try to read between the lines," says Alvin, Jr., "Sure, we know the words by heart but

Students Get A Button For Boredom

CINCINNATI (AP) — If students at the University of Cincinnati become lost or bored with a lecture, they simply push a button to signify their displeasure.

The button, attached to a "communicator," lights up a combination of linking lights at the front of the classroom to help instructors determine the mood of classes.

The classes of Dorelle Heisel, a psychology instructor, are currently experimenting with the mechanism developed by Procter & Gamble here.

"It has been found that only about 20 per cent of a lecture class is listening at any one time," said Mrs. Heisel.

"The lecture, however, is a valuable medium for communicating information. The communicator permitting students to influence can increase its effectiveness by an explanation while it is in progress."

Mrs. Heisel explained that the device helps improve effectiveness of teaching methods and she foresees a large use for it in the future.

"As the device is totally experimental, its complete value is yet to be discovered," she said. "As a response indicator, however, it has created what may become a new media in the classroom."

3 Major Candidates Fight Hard For 26 Ohio Votes

By DON BANDY
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey is being squeezed from all sides in his efforts to win Ohio's 26 electoral votes for president.

Richard M. Nixon, the Republican nominee, is given the edge now in a state where Democrats outnumber Republicans. Republican leaders are not hesitant in predicting smooth sailing for Nixon in the short time remaining before the Nov. 5 election.

Democrats are trying desperately to overcome Nixon's popularity in one of the seven large "battleground" states that probably will decide the outcome, and to knock down the growing support for George C. Wallace among blue collar workers.

The party is still saddled with some dissident Democrats who do not believe Humphrey is a substitute for Sen. Eugene McCarthy. It also is threatened with strong reports of a white backlash from conservative Democrats upset by Negro disturbances.

Some observers believe Humphrey may finish third in Ohio, behind Nixon and Wallace. Secretary of State Ted W. Brown has forecast a record number of 4.4 million votes, and predicts that Wallace will receive 25 per cent of them, finishing ahead of Humphrey, but behind Nixon.

Republicans from State Party Chairman John S. Andrews on down, confident of victory, are issuing a note of warning to head off any complacency.

"We're not taking this for granted by any means," says a state party source. Andrews himself promised there will be no let up until the election.

"There is a spirit of harmony within the party this year in contrast to 1964" when Barry Goldwater was the GOP standard bearer, Andrews said. "We believe that Nixon and Saxbe (William B. Saxbe, GOP senate candidate) are ahead and we see the opportunity for victory up and down the ballot."

State Sen. Theodore M. Gray, coordinator of Ohio United Citizens for Nixon-Agnew, said, "We feel confident Nixon is doing well." Gray said a Republican field man from Washington, who traveled in the state recently, reported he was amazed at the cooperation among Republicans and the various Nixon committees.

"Normally you just don't find this kind of cooperation and enthusiasm," Gray quoted the man as saying.

Gray and others reported it's hard to predict how many votes Wallace will collect, but that he will finish third. "Wallace is a threat," says Gray, "but not enough to keep Nixon from winning the state."

As part of his heavy campaigning in Ohio, Nixon has scheduled a two-day whistle-stop train tour through the state Oct. 21-22.

Many feel that the third party candidacy of Wallace, former Alabama governor, will prevent any of the candidates from getting a majority of the votes.

Polls show Nixon winning the state and voter registration apparently is in favor of the former vice president. Registration was up in Cincinnati and Columbus, traditionally GOP strongholds, while it was down in northeastern Ohio—Cleveland, Youngstown, Akron—which has always been Democratic. It also was down in Toledo, another Democratic bastion.

But Democrats are highly optimistic and hope to derail Nixon.

"Those who are comparing this year's election to 1960 are off on a wrong tangent," says State Democratic Chairman Eugene P. O'Grady. "Just because Nixon won then doesn't mean he's going to win again."

As the GOP nominee against John F. Kennedy in 1960, Nixon carried the state by 273,000 votes, the only northern industrial state he won.

O'Grady added that "the Humphrey campaign has begun to turn in Ohio. It's on an upward swing, while Nixon is declining and Wallace is slipping."

O'Grady, who has been stumping the state for Humphrey, says this is due partly to Humphrey's proposal for a conditional halt to the bombing of North Vietnam.

O'Grady and other Democrats, such as Ohio AFL-CIO president Frank W. King, lace their conversations with the word "Concern."

Both feel the voters "are becoming more concerned" as the election draws near, and that Humphrey is the only candidate who can end the war and stop the rising crime rate.

"In Ohio," King said, "I'm beginning to see that people have much more concern in the choice between the three men." He added, however, that Wallace has "more strength than I would like to see."

King has mounted a massive anti-Wallace campaign, distributing more than five million pieces of literature to rank and file union members.

Both Republicans and Democrats will be throwing their big guns into the northeastern area late this month. Nixon and Humphrey are scheduled to campaign in that section again.

Democrats normally can count on northeastern Ohio, but to win the state, they must win big there to offset the down-state Republican margins. On the other hand, a break—even vote in northeast would virtually assure Republicans of a state victory.

It may not be easy for Democrats in that area this year. Summit County Chairman Robert Blakemore, a staunch Humphrey supporter, says he has received reports that some labor union locals in the Akron area may go for Wallace by as much as 50-75 per cent. Similar reports have come from Canton, Alliance and Massillon, all areas where Wallace has campaigned.

Cuyahoga County (Cleveland) Republicans began a straw vote of 26 county precincts last month, and early returns shows precincts that voted heavily Democratic in May now favor Nixon, then Wallace and then Humphrey.

The Democrats face a possible white backlash in the Cleveland area as the result of Negro disturbances, including a violent outbreak July 23 that left three white policemen and seven others dead.

The Wallace organization has sent a key campaign worker, Sage Lyons, into the state to run Wallace's Ohio campaign. Lyons has opened a state headquarters in Columbus.

Lyons, who says Wallace and his running mate, retired Air Force Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, reported that the Wallace ticket has strong support in the northeastern area, heavily populated by blue collar workers.

Also, Lyons said, rank and file union members in Dayton in southwestern Ohio have paid for 12 billboards out of their own pockets to promote Wallace.

Most of the state's large newspapers have endorsed Nixon, including the Cleveland Plain Dealer, Cleveland Press, Columbus Dispatch, Cincinnati Enquirer and Cincinnati Post & Times-Star. The Dayton Dailey News has endorsed Humphrey.

Matson, Hines Win Olympic Gold Medals

MEXICO CITY (AP) — These could become the Red, White and Blue Olympics.

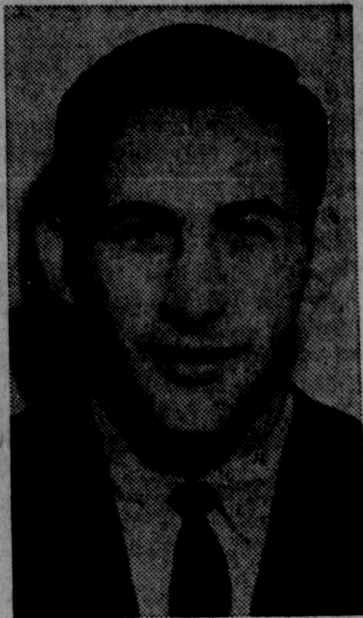

Lean Jim Hines and massive Randy Matson—both pro football prospects—rang up gold medals for the United States Monday while the Russians, obviously were disappointed over their showing.

Hines, a 6-foot, 175-pound whippet, matched his own pending world record with a 9.9 clocking in the 100 meters, with teammate Charlie Greene, a former Nebraska star, third. Lenny Miller of Jamaica was second.

Matson, a 6-foot-6, 260-pound giant, world record holder in the shot put but slump-ridden lately, won his specialty with a toss of 67 feet, 4 inches, well off his amazing world record of 71-5/8. George Wood, Los Angeles, made it 1-2 for the United States with a 66 feet 1/4 inch effort, while Eduard Guschin of Russia was third at 65-11.

That gave the United States the early gold medal lead, with two, plus a silver and a bronze. Russia leads in over-all medals with five, three of them bronze and only one gold.

Southern Cal Heads Grid Poll; OSU Now 2nd

Associated Press Sports Writer Southern California rose to the top of the pack, Purdue skidded to fifth and Ohio State, Penn State and Kansas are lodged in between in a reshuffling of The Associated Press' major college football poll.

Hayes Happy Despite Being Only No. 2

By HAL PARIS

Associated Press Sports Writer COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Mel-low Woody Hayes is too happy these days to get mad at anyone.

The Ohio State football coach, still showing signs of sheer delight after his Buckeyes stunned Purdue 13-0 Saturday, seemed unperturbed when told his Buckeyes were No. 2 in The Associated Press poll.

"Who's No. 1?" he asked. When told that Southern California had the top spot, Woody replied: "That gives us something to work for."

Hayes was in a festive mood at his Monday press luncheon but still serious enough to warn about this week's homecoming foe.

"Northwestern is always a tough game for us," he said. "We have a lot of friends but you make a lot of dedicated enemies too when you're winning. They'll all be shooting at us now."

The Bucks, who now have the inside track on their first Big Ten title since 1961 and their first trip to the Rose Bowl since 1958, will be gunning for their eighth straight victory against the Wildcats. Ohio won its last four in 1967 and is 3-0 this season.

Hayes, still analyzing the Purdue triumph, made it clear that it was a team effort. "The offense moved the ball. We played for 60 minutes, there was no letup, whatsoever. From the standpoint of consistency of effort, this has to be rated very highly."

He singled out defensive tackle Paul Schmicklin as the top lineman in the Purdue game and fullback Jim Otis as the outstanding back.

But he had praise too for Bill Urbanik, Brad Nielsen, Mark Debevc, Jim Stillwagon, John Tatum, Tim Anderson, Ted Provost, Rufus Mayes and Dave Foley, among others.

LE Reserves Win Grid Game, 16-6

The Logan Elm reserve football team defeated Unioto's reserves, 16-6, in a game played Monday at Unioto.

Wertie Teets scored both touchdowns for the little Braves and added one two point conversion. John Weaver notched the other conversion.

The first touchdown came in the first quarter. Unioto scored in the third, and the Braves bounced right back with a score to ice the win. It was the first reserve game for the LE squad.

Purdue, startled by Ohio State 13-0 last weekend, fell from first place and the unbeaten Trojans followed fleet-footed O. J. Simpson into the vacated top spot.

Southern Cal collected 23 of 41 first place votes and tallied 718 points to runner-up Ohio State's 672. But the Buckeyes gave the Trojans a run for the top spot with 12 first place votes. Penn State was third with 606 and Kansas fourth with 540. Purdue had 452 points but no first place votes.

Simpson raced for three touchdowns last Saturday as the Trojans edged stubborn Stanford 27-24.

The Buckeyes moved up from fourth place after they silenced the Boilermakers' one-two punch of quarterback Mike Phipps and halfback Leroy Keyes.

Penn State held on to third place with 606 after a 21-6 victory over UCLA, and Notre Dame, which beat Northwestern 27-7, dropped from fifth to sixth place with 348 points.

Kansas jumped from sixth place to fourth after beating Nebraska 23-13 in a key Big Eight contest. Nebraska slipped from ninth to 13th.

Florida remained in seventh place after tripping Tulane 24-3 and Tennessee climbed from 10th to eighth after dealing a 24-7 beating to Georgia Tech.

In reshuffled standings in the Second Ten, Arkansas rose from 14th to ninth after a 35-9 victory over Baylor, and Georgia moved from 17th to 10th after dropping Mississippi 2-7.

Southern Cal and Ohio State should have breathers next Saturday when the Trojans face Washington and the Buckeyes play Northwestern. Penn State is idle while Kansas meets Oklahoma in a Big Eight showdown.

Purdue plays Wake Forest, Notre Dame faces Illinois and Florida tangles with North Carolina. Tennessee meets Alabama, Arkansas is at Texas and Georgia is at home against Vanderbilt.

New National League Clubs Happy With Expensive Picks

MONTREAL (AP) — Buzzy Bavasi and John McHale, the National League's newest club presidents, are much happier with the players they acquired in this year's expansion draft than they would have been with the players they gave away eight years ago in the original expansion draft.

"I'm not satisfied with the price we paid," said Bavasi, who has moved on from Los Angeles' general manager to president of the new San Diego Padres. "But the first seven players we received are probably better than the players we gave away in the last draft."

"We're paying three times as much for the players," said McHale, who was then Milwaukee's general manager and is now president of the new Montreal Expos.

McHale's Montreal club went heavy for the veteran player while Bavasi's San Diego club looked to youth as they selected three players from each of the 10 existing clubs.

It was not until their 19th pick — outfielder Tony Gonzalez of Philadelphia — that the Padres took their only player over 30 years old. By that time, the Expos had taken six.

The Expos raided the Pittsburgh Pirates for three of the over-30 players, grabbing outfielder Manny Mota, first baseman Donn Clendenon and infielder Maury Wills, a former Most Valuable Player award-winner, among their first dozen picks.

The Padres, meanwhile, went for only two players closing in on 30. St. Louis pitcher Dave Gustin and shortstop Zoilo Versalles of Los Angeles, like Wills a former MVP winner. But they also dipped into the minors for a pair of 19-year-olds, catcher Fred Kendall from Cincinnati and outfielder Jerry Morales from the New York Mets.

Kendall hit .291 with seven home runs and 50 runs batted in this past season, only his second as a pro, for Asheville of the Southern League. Morales hit .264 with six homers and 33 RBI, his third in pro ball, for Visalia of the California League.

Kendall and Morales were the seventh and eighth players selected by the Padres, who started the draft by naming Ollie Brown, a San Francisco outfielder, as the No. 1 pick.

Their other first-round selections were Gustin, pitcher Dick Selma from New York, infielder Jose Arca from Chicago and pitcher Al Santorini from Atlanta. In the second round, the Padres took pitcher Clay Kirby from St. Louis, Kendall, Morales, outfielder Nate Colbert from Houston and Versalles.

Montreal made Mota its first pick, then followed up with outfielder Mack Jones of Cincinnati, Houston catcher John Bateman, Philadelphia infielder Gary Sutherland and Los Angeles pitcher Jack Billingham.

In the second round, the Expos went for Clendenon, San Francisco outfielder Jesus Alou, Philadelphia pitcher Mike Wegener, Atlanta pitcher Skip Guinn and Chicago pitcher Bill Stoneman.

The Expos later added two over-30 pitchers, 37-year-old Larry Jackson from Philadelphia and 33-year-old Jim "Mudcat" Grant from Los Angeles. Three other pitchers of more than passing note went even later than Jackson and Grant—San Diego taking Billy McCool from Cincinnati and Al McBean from Pittsburgh while Montreal took Larry Jaster from St. Louis.

But from the 37-year-old Jackson to the 19-year-olds each player cost Montreal and San Diego the same $333,333.33. By comparison, prices in the first draft in 1960 ranged from $50,000 to $125,000 per player.

Matson, Hines Win Olympic Gold Medals

MEXICO CITY (AP) — These could become the Red, White and Blue Olympics.
Lean Jim Hines and massive Randy Matson—both pro football prospects—rang up gold medals for the United States Monday while the Russians, obviously were disappointed over their showing.
Hines, a 6-foot, 175-pound whippet, matched his own pending world record with a 9.9 clocking in the 100 meters, with teammate Charlie Greene, a former Nebraska star, third. Lenny Miller of Jamaica was second.
Matson, a 6-foot-6, 260-pound giant, world record holder in the shot put but slump-ridden lately, won his specialty with a toss of 67 feet, 4 inches, well off his amazing world record of 71-5 1/2.
George Wood, Los Angeles, made it 1-2 for the United States with a 66 foot 1/2 inch effort, while Eduard Guschin of Russia was third at 65-11.
That gave the United States the early gold medal lead, with two, plus a silver and a bronze. Russia leads in over-all medals with five, three of them bronze and only one gold.

Southern Cal Heads Grid Poll; OSU Now 2nd

By SHEILA MORAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Southern California rose to the top of the pack, Purdue skidded to fifth and Ohio State, Penn State and Kansas are lodged in between in a reshuffling of The Associated Press' major college football poll.

Hayes Happy Despite Being Only No. 2

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Mel-low Woody Hayes is too happy these days to get mad at anyone.

The Ohio State football coach, still showing signs of sheer delight after his Buckeyes stunned Purdue 13-0 Saturday, seemed unperturbed when told his Buckeyes were No. 2 in The Associated Press poll.

"Who's No. 1?" he asked. When told that Southern California had the top spot, Woody replied: "That gives us something to work for."

Hayes was in a festive mood at his Monday press luncheon but still serious enough to warn about this week's homecoming foe.

"Northwestern is always a tough game for us," he said. "We have a lot of friends but you make a lot of dedicated enemies too when you're winning. They'll all be shooting at us now."

The Bucks, who now have the inside track on their first Big Ten title since 1961 and their first trip to the Rose Bowl since 1958, will be gunning for their eighth straight victory against the Wildcats. Ohio won its last four in 1967 and is 3-0 this season.

Hayes, still analyzing the Purdue triumph, made it clear that it was a team effort.

"The offense moved the ball. We played for 60 minutes, there was no letup, whatsoever. From the standpoint of consistency of effort, this has to be rated very highly."

He singled out defensive tackle Paul Schmiedlin as the top lineman in the Purdue game and fullback Jim Otis as the outstanding back.

But he had praise too for Bill Urbanik, Brad Nielsen, Mark Debevo, Jim Stillwagon, John Tatum, Tim Anderson, Ted Provost, Rufus Mayes and Dave Foley, among others.

LE Reserves Win Grid Game, 16-6

The Logan Elm reserve football team defeated Unioto's reserves, 16-6, in a game played Monday at Unioto.

Wertie Teets scored both touchdowns for the little Braves and added one two point conversion. John Weaver notched the other conversion.

The first touchdown came in the first quarter. Unioto scored in the third, and the Braves bounced right back with a score to ice the win. It was the first reserve game for the LE squad.

Purdue, startled by Ohio State 13-0 last weekend, fell from first place and the unbeaten Trojans followed fleet-footed O. J. Simpson into the vacated top spot.

Southern Cal collected 23 of 41 first place votes and tallied 718 points to runner-up Ohio State's 672. But the Buckeyes gave the Trojans a run for the top spot with 12 first place votes. Penn State was third with 606 and Kansas fourth with 540. Purdue had 452 points but no first place votes.

Simpson raced for three touchdowns last Saturday as the Trojans edged stubborn Stanford 27-24.

The Buckeyes moved up from fourth place after they silenced the Boilermakers' one-two punch of quarterback Mike Phipps and halfback Leroy Keyes.

Penn State held on to third place with 606 after a 21-6 victory over UCLA, and Notre Dame, which beat Northwestern 27-7, dropped from fifth to sixth place with 348 points. Kansas jumped from sixth place to fourth after beating Nebraska 23-13 in a key Big Eight contest. Nebraska slipped from ninth to 13th.

Florida remained in seventh place after tripping Tulane 24-3 and Tennessee climbed from 10th to eighth after dealing a 24-7 beating to Georgia Tech.

In reshuffled standings in the Second Ten, Arkansas rose from 14th to ninth after a 35-9 victory over Baylor, and Georgia moved from 17th to 10th after dropping Mississippi 2-7.

Southern Cal and Ohio State should have breathers next Saturday when the Trojans face Washington and the Buckeyes play Northwestern. Penn State is idle while Kansas meets Oklahoma in a Big Eight showdown.

New National League Clubs Happy With Expensive Picks

MONTREAL (AP) — Buzzy Bavasi and John McHale, the National League's newest club presidents, are much happier with the players they acquired in this year's expansion draft than they would have been with the players they gave away eight years ago in the original expansion draft.

"I'm not satisfied with the price we paid," said Bavasi, who has moved on from Los Angeles' general manager to president of the new San Diego Padres. "But the first seven players we received are probably better than the players we gave away in the last draft."

"We're paying three times as much for the players," said McHale, who was then Milwaukee's general manager and is now president of the new Montreal Expos.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Gladys
Griffith, who passed away on Oct.
24, 1968.
The world may change from year to year.
Our lives from day to day, in love or memory of you Dear, shall never fade away.
We always sit and think of you and the way you died.
And that you never got to say goodbye before you closed your eyes.
The blow was hard the shock severe.
You never thought that death was so near.
And only those who have lost can tell the pain of parting without farewell.
Always true, unselfish and kind.
A beautiful life that came to an end.
She died as she lived, Everybody's friend.
Sadly missed by her Mother &
Stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Dave
Singleton, her son and daughter,
Benny and Donna.

UA, Newark Catholic Top Grid Poll

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Upper Arlington, shooting for its second straight Class AA title, continues to hold a comfortable margin in the weekly Associated Press high school football rankings.

But Newark Catholic, last week's Class A leader, barely retained its lofty position over No. 2 Norwalk St. Paul.

Arlington, which survived an early scare before trouncing Zanesville, 40-22, collected 148 points from the writers and sportscasters who vote in the poll.

That left Coach Marv Moorehead's club with a 30-point edge over Mentor and a 46-point advantage over No. 3 Massillon, 5-1, Arlington and Mentor boast perfect 6-0 records.

SPORTS Highlights

MONTREAL (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds lost two veterans and four rookies in the National League expansion draft Monday and General Manager Robert Howsam felt Cincinnati was hurt "as badly as anybody."

But the losses seemed minor since pitchers such as George Culver, Ted Abernathy, Mel Queen and Wayne Granger, apparently not on the protected list, were not chosen.

Montreal selected outfielder Mack Jones and infielder Jim Williams along with pitcher Dan McGinn. San Diego took pitchers Billy McCool and Fred Katawyzik and catcher Fred Kendall. Both Jones and McCool were veterans who were expected to be lost.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Dave Roberts of Columbus was named the International League's Most Valuable Pitcher today.

He was the league's winningest pitcher with an 18-6 record this past baseball season. Toledo's Jim Rooker followed him in the voting.

Marv Rettenmund of Rochester won the Most Valuable Player award Monday, with Toledo's Mike Derrick and Columbus' Al Oliver next in the voting.

Roberts was one of the pitchers chosen by the San Diego Padres Monday in the National League's expansion draft. The new major league club also drafted Steve Arlin, former Ohio State pitching star, from Philadelphia.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Former world heavyweight champion Sonny Liston of Las Vegas, Nev., kept his title hopes alive Monday night with a third-round knockout over Sonny Moore of Dallas.

Liston, 36, who weighed 221½, dropped his lighter opponent once in the second round for a mandatory eight count with an overhand right to the head, after Moore, 20½, fought Liston on equal terms in the opening round.

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Middleweight Champion Nino Benvenuti and Doyle Baird fought to a draw in a 10-round non-title fight in Akron's Rubber Bowl Monday night.

Two referees rated the match even and one gave Baird a one-point edge.

Elyria, 6 - 0, was in fourth place followed by Warren Western Reserve, 6-; Shelby, 6-0; newcomer Cincinnati St. Xavier, 6-; Niles McKinley, 5-1; Kettering Alter, 6-0 and Struthers, 5-0. St. Xavier crashed the elite group after bouncing arch-rival Cincinnati Roger Bacon, ranked No. 4 last week, 14-6.

American League Expansion Clubs Slate Player Draft

BOSTON (AP) — The Kansas City Royals and the Seattle Pilots, getting ready for a 1969 entry into the American League pennant race, went talent-hunting at a cost of $5.125 million each today in a generous expansion draft.

"There is a tremendous amount of good young players on the unprotected lists," Seattle General Manager Marvin Milkes said on the eve of the Pilots' and Royals' raids on the league's 10 established clubs.

"This draft will be just the start of things," Milkes predicted. "We'll make deals later."

Seattle won the toss of a coin flipped by AL President Joe Cronin. However, the Pilots exercised an option and gave Kansas City the first draft choice in order to take the second and third selections.

The 10 established clubs are permitted to protect only 15 players each in their far-flung organizations. That left plenty of solid players, as well as promising youngsters, available for Kansas City and Seattle.

Although they will pay $175,000 for each of 30 players drafted, the two new entries in the American League should fare much better than expansion clubs in past years.

"There is plenty of talent available," Harry Dalton of the Baltimore Orioles said. "This is going to hurt all of us. Anytime an organization loses six players in one day it has to hurt."

"I don't want to even think about it, but I guess I have to," said Manager Mayo Smith of the Detroit Tigers. "Everyone is going to lose good ballplayers."

Nixon Urges New Programs To Help Latin Americans

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon called Monday for "an action program of realistic dimension" in Latin America.

The Johnson administration, Nixon said in a statement, has "clearly shown its unwillingness and inability to give our neighbors priority status and effective aid which they deserve."

Nixon urged that a crash program be launched to complete a planned highway system through the interior of the South American continent. A goal should be completion within five years, he said, and all available resources should be marshaled to meet the deadline.

"Of course, this would not solve all the problems immediately or automatically," he said. "But the opening of the heartland of South America will have an immense effect economically and will open more doors to development for our neighbors."

The Republican presidential candidate, moving into the home stretch of his campaign, scheduled public appearances today in four states.

Nixon was set for rallies in Miami, Greensboro, N.C., and Knoxville, Tenn. Then, finally, he will get an after-dark airport welcome at Kansas City, where three more speeches are on tap for Wednesday.

Nixon, at least during the final two weeks before election, is expected to concentrate exclusively on personal appearances in the seven states with the most voters: New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Texas, and California.

In addition, he will be stepping up his appearances on nationwide television and radio.

Ashville Juveniles Arrested For Theft

Two Ashville juveniles were arrested by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department for the theft of a jar of pennies from the home of Jack Kemp, Ashville.

Kemp told sheriff's deputies that someone had entered his house by banging on the screen door until it came unhooked. The jar of pennies, valued at $8, was the only item missing.

The juveniles are awaiting trial in Juvenile Court.

Local Girl Injured In 2-Car Mishap

An 18-year-old Circleville girl was injured in a two-car accident on Route 56 at the intersection of Mound St. Monday evening.

Beverly Herron of 457 Watt St. received neck injuries when her car was struck by a car driven by Dale Asbury, 26, Route 4. Both cars were extensively damaged.

Miss Herron, who was treated for injuries by her doctor, stated she was southbound on Route 56 when she saw the Asbury vehicle coming at her left of center on the curve. She stated that she attempted to pull her car to the right to avoid a collision, but was unsuccessful.

Asbury, who was driving 50 miles per hour at the time of the accident, stated that he applied his brakes but that the front brakes locked, keeping him from controlling the car.

Asbury was cited by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department for driving left of center.

Junior Parsons, 42, Cleveland, was fined $200 and costs sentenced to 10 days in the county jail and has his license suspended for three years. Both were cited by the Ohio Highway Patrol.

Local motorists who forfeited bonds in court when they did not appear for hearings were:

Raleigh C. Johnson, 39, Orient, $19 bond forfeiture for operating a vehicle with a defective tail light.

fighter-bombers flying 118 missions over the North Monday and pilots reporting at least 21 supply boats, 12 trucks and seven railroad cars destroyed or damaged.

U.S. headquarters announced the loss of a Navy A6 Intruder Sunday 24 miles southeast of Vinh and said the two crewmen are missing. It was the 90th American warplane announced lost in combat over North Vietnam.

Announcing the start of the new psychological war campaign, Gen. Minh said allied pressure and particularly the attacks of the B52s had "critically frightened the enemy" and caused "an unprecedented amount of casualties."

In the only significant ground action reported Monday, infantrymen of the U.S. 9th Division supported by helicopter gunships killed 22 Viet Cong in an hour-long battle in the Mekong Delta, 36 miles south of Saigon.

Marine headquarters reported today that Lt. Lewis B. Puller Jr., son of the most decorated man in the history of the Corps, lost both his legs in a booby trap explosion Oct. 11.

It was not immediately learned whether the 23-year-old son of Retired Lt. Gen. Lewis B. "Chesty" Puller was still in the naval hospital at Da Nang or whether he had been flown out of the country.

Marine spokesmen said a booby trap made from a 105mm howitzer shell exploded as Puller led his platoon five miles south of Da Nang. The young lieutenant arrived in Vietnam Aug. 5, and in less than three months of combat he had already been awarded a Bronze Star for valor.

His father won 56 decorations, including five Navy Crosses, and retired in 1955.

Washington Hit By Outbreaks

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second night in a row Monday Negro youths ranged through a section of Washington's Northeast, smashing windows and looting.

Police using tear gas blocked off the area along H Street between 8th and 15th and brought the brief disturbance under control without making any arrests.

There was no indication what caused the outbreak.

Five policemen were injured and windows in a dozen stores smashed Sunday before police restored order by using tear gas.

Saxbe, Gilligan Step Up Campaigns As Nov. 5 Nears

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Election day is exactly three weeks away. Perhaps the date had managed to sneak up on you, but politicians are well aware of it and are stepping up their campaigns accordingly.

Democrat John Gilligan said today his opponent for the U.S. Senate, Republican William B. Saxbe, has a poor record as "the state's chief law enforcement officer."

Saxbe has said that as attorney general he is not, by law, the "chief law enforcement officer."

In remarks prepared for news conferences today in Cincinnati, Columbus and Cleveland, Gilligan persisted in referring to Saxbe by that title and said

Saxbe keeps trying to make law and order the issue of the campaign.

"He began with television commercials through which he pandered to fear and hatred," Gilligan charged. "We thought this advertising was especially irresponsible for the chief law enforcement officer of Ohio who bears some responsibility for Ohio's appalling crime rise."

On a topic far removed from law and order, Saxbe issued a statement today calling on the federal government to create programs designed to help young people qualify for productive jobs.

Saxbe said that as senator he would strongly recommend more federal-state cooperation in the expansion of vocational education to help keep "idle young people off the streets" and away from juvenile crime.

Saxbe said jobs requiring a college education are in the minority and about 90 per cent of Ohio's high school graduates will be required to have vocational training if they are to find productive employment.

Saxbe was scheduled for campaign stops today in Cleveland, Canton and Cincinnati.

Republican vice presidential candidate Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland is due in Youngstown Thursday for what officials call a major campaign address.

In another development, outgoing Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, announced in Washington he will vote for Republican Richard Nixon for president.

2 Fined, Jailed For Destruction

Two Laurelville men, charged with malicious destruction of property, were fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in the county jail by Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb.

Arrested by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department, the two are George Dumm and Jeffery Dean Sells. Both were accused of throwing a brick through a glass window of a building owned by Allen Hubbel.

HHH Still Trying To Draw Nixon Into TV Debates

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey, renewing his criticism of Richard M. Nixon's refusal to debate him, says there is a new Nixon doll on the market: "You just wind it up and then it hides."

Speaking before an enthusiastic audience of 10,000 partisans in Evansville, Ind., Monday night, the Democratic presidential nominee said that his efforts to get Nixon to debate remind him of pheasant hunting, in which he said one sometimes has to kick a bush to get the bird to come out.

"I'm going to kick his bush," Humphrey said, adding that he looks forward to a debate because "I'm a pretty good shot at a moving target." He spoke to a $10-a-plate fund-raising dinner.

Humphrey arrived in Kansas City around midnight and faces a busy half-day of campaigning including a downtown rally, a television session and a question period at a high school. Despite the late hour he was greeted by bands and several hundred cheering college students, both at the airport and his hotel.

Third-party candidate George C. Wallace accepted Humphrey's offer to debate if Nixon also accepts. Wallace said he would pay his share if the debate is held.

Humphrey has offered to pay the cost of the debate and has reserved one hour on CBS television Sunday night.

In his Evansville speech, Humphrey plugged hard at the theme of prosperity under the Democrats, in an area where large numbers of blue-collar factory workers are considered leaning to Wallace.

A vote for Wallace, Humphrey told the crowd, "is a vote that would result in Mr. Nixon's election and a Republican recession."

Before leaving Washington Monday, Humphrey told a news conference that "the greatest single threat of a Nixon victory is what he'll do 'to the supreme court.'"

Nixon Urges New Programs To Help Latin Americans

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon called Monday for "an action program of realistic dimension" in Latin America. The Johnson administration, Nixon said in a statement, has "clearly shown its unwillingness and inability to give our neighbors priority status and effective aid which they deserve."

Nixon urged that a crash program be launched to complete a planned highway system through the interior of the South American continent. A goal should be completion within five years, he said, and all available resources should be marshaled to meet the deadline.

"Of course, this would not solve all the problems immediately or automatically," he said. "But the opening of the heartland of South America will have an immense effect economically and will open more doors to development for our neighbors."

The Republican presidential candidate, moving into the home stretch of his campaign, scheduled public appearances today in four states.

Nixon was set for rallies in Miami, Greensboro, N.C., and Knoxville, Tenn. Then, finally, he will get an after-dark airport welcome at Kansas City, where three more speeches are on tap for Wednesday.

Nixon, at least during the final two weeks before election, is expected to concentrate exclusively on personal appearances in the seven states with the most voters: New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Texas, and California.

In addition, he will be stepping up his appearances on nationwide television and radio.

Local Girl Injured In 2-Car Mishap

An 18-year-old Circleville girl was injured in a two-car accident on Route 56 at the intersection of Mound St. Monday evening.

Beverly Herron of 457 Watt St. received neck injuries when her car was struck by a car driven by Dale Asbury, 26, Route 4. Both cars were extensively damaged.

Miss Herron, who was treated for injuries by her doctor, stated she was southbound on Route 56 when she saw the Asbury vehicle coming at her left of center on the curve. She stated that she attempted to pull her car to the right to avoid a collision, but was unsuccessful.

Asbury, who was driving 50 miles per hour at the time of the accident, stated that he applied his brakes but that the front brakes locked, keeping him from controlling the car.

Asbury was cited by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department for driving left of center.

Two Ashville juveniles were arrested by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department for the theft of a jar of pennies from the home of Jack Kemp, Ashville.
